IN MISSISSIPPI

J. Edgar Hoover Believes Missing Three Are Dead

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Friday he believed the three civil rights workers who vanished mysteriously in Mississippi last month are dead.

The FBI chief came to this racially troubled state to talk with Gov. Paul B. Johnson and other officials. At the same time, the FBI beefed up its forces in Mississippi.

Hoover dedicated a new FBI office after conferring nearly an hour with Johnson. The big new office was set up on a crash basis over the past 48 hours, at the direction of President Johnson.

SEARCH CONTINUES

Hoover said the search for the three civil rights workers who disappeared without a trace June 21 at Philadelphia in east-central Mississippi would continue until "the bodies are found."

"I must say that I have an inclination that they are dead," Hoover told a press conference in his agency's new offices. This came in reply to a newsman's question.

Roy K. Moore, 49, a veteran FBI agent presently assigned to Little Rock, Ark., was named as special agent in charge of the newly created field office here.

President Johnson had announced in Washington earlier Friday that 50 FBI agents would be permanently assigned to the Jackson office. The FBI declined to say how many agents it previously had regularly assigned to the state.

More than 100 are engaged in the search for the missing workers — Andrew Goodman, Michael Schwerner, two white New Yorkers, and their Negro companion, James Chaney.

Nothing significant has come up in the investigation since the charred station wagon used by the three was found two days after they dropped from sight.

Asked if the decision to open the new FBI offices came as a result of the fact-finding trip former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles made to Mississippi last month at the request of the President, Hoover said, "No, it was not."

Goldwater Chides Rivals Over Communism Stands

Rolls Relentlessly Toward Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Barry Goldwater taunted top opponent William W. Scranton — and the Johnson administration — on the question of communism Friday and rolled relentlessly on toward a first-ballot Republican presidential nomination.

The Arizona senator has the nomination cinched as much as a candidate with opposition ever has had in national convention preliminaries.

But, said Scranton, wait until the delegates get the hundreds of thousands of letters and telegrams he said are pouring into his headquarters with assurances of support. These, the Pennsylvania governor said, are going to hit with thumping impact.

CHEERED

Goldwater, applauded and cheered in an appearance before the Republican National Convention Platform Committee, said it seemed discussion of the hard facts of communism had been taboo in the keynote addresses before the committee.

Scranton was the main speaker there Thursday. Flicking back at Goldwater at a news conference Friday, the Pennsylvania governor said he was sure all Republicans feel strongly about communism.

Goldwater was rougher on the Johnson administration, and more specific, than on Scranton. America, he said, must "lead the crusade against tyranny and for freedom," that communism is the great menace to freedom, but that: "This administration pretends that communism has so changed that we can accommodate it."

The senator assured the Platform Committee he would not attempt to dictate what they write. He promised to stand solidly on the platform and run on it to victory in November.

And as president, he said, he will enforce the civil rights law he opposed in the Senate, and reinforce it with other action.

With the opening of the Republican convention only three days away, the senator was the all-but-certain choice to be the party standard-bearer, and on the first ballot because of rosy prospects for reaping votes from Ohio.

While Scranton was on a treadmill, he conceded little-not even that his chances had been damaged seriously by the prospective release Monday of Ohio's 58 uncommitted delegates to go wherever they want to leap.

The governor would say only that the Ohio outlook "obviously minimizes the favorite-son tactic" of withholding votes from Goldwater on the first ballot—a tactic on which he once relied heavily.

On what, then, does he base his hopes for trouncing Goldwater?

"On the feeling of the people and the pressure that will have on the delegates," he said.

Scranton said he has a task force going to work on the Ohio delegation, that he is making headway in Michigan, Missouri, Illinois and Florida, and that a surprising number of delegates called on him Friday morning—he estimated 35 from five states.

The governor's headquarters also claimed seven or eight of Iowa's 24 delegates are "strongly committed" to Scranton. A statement quoted George Nagle of Iowa City, former Republican state chairman, as saying the Goldwater camp originally claimed two-thirds of the delegation but now "there is a very good chance that we will go into the convention with the delegation evenly divided, 12-12."

LBJ Silent On Personal V.P. Choice

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson again turned aside questions about his choice for a vice-presidential running mate Friday and declined to get involved in a Republican party row.

"I think the Republican party has enough problems without my adding to them in any way," Johnson told a news conference.

He gave that reply in answer to a question as to whether he thinks Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona was right in saying that "as of now" Johnson could beat any Republican.

CENTERS ON RFK

Goldwater said things will change between now and the November election, but his chief rival for the GOP presidential nomination, Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, seized on the quote as evidence of what he called a defeatist policy.

The question about Johnson's running mate centered on Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, and the President said he would leave it to the Democratic National Convention meeting Aug. 24 in Atlantic City to act on his recommendation.

This was the exchange:

"Mr. President, the attorney general said recently that the only thing he has going for him in the vice-presidential nomination is the fact that the big city bosses in the North, the party bosses in the North, are for him. Do you think this is a factor in his favor in getting the nomination?"

Johnson: "I think that the delegates to the convention, after they nominate the president, will act on the vice-presidential nomination, and I plan to make recommendations to them in that connection, as is customary, if I am the nominee."

"At that time," he added, "I believe the convention will select the man that is available who has the best qualifications to occupy the office of vice president and president, if he should be called upon to do that."

Kennedy has declined to say whether he is a candidate for the No. 2 spot.

Others who have been mentioned as possible Johnson running mates include Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, and Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota. Mansfield told a reporter Friday to "count me out."

Johnson, who has shown indications he would welcome Goldwater as his opponent this fall, was primed for a question about a Goldwater charge of fiscal irresponsibility in his administration.

Righters Want Commissioners In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Civil rights forces asked federal district court Friday to name federal commissioners in each of the state's 82 counties to protect Negro civil and voting rights.

The suit was filed by the Council of Federated Organizations and others against state and county officials and segregationist organizations. The organizations included the Ku Klux Klan, Americans for the Preservation of the White Race and the Citizens Councils of Mississippi.

Leaving

Leaving today for two weeks of fun and sun at Fort Gordon, Ga., near Augusta, are local residents Wamul Owens, Bob Greer and David Kahn.

Or maybe "fun and sun" might be a slight exaggeration. Actually, the trip is for two weeks of military police training, performed annually as part of their Army Reserve responsibilities. All three are officers in the program.

They're participants in a five - year Career Officers course.

Returning

Due back today from a two-day annual vocational conference in Baton Rouge are Ouachita Parish School Supt. Milton C. Hall and Asst. Supt. P. B. Mangum.

Held Thursday and Friday for school superintendents, high school supervisors and vocational personnel, the program was sponsored by the Louisiana Education Department

It was held in Pleasant Hall on the campus of Louisiana State University.

WITHOUT PERMIT

Garbage Off Limits In Perez Country

POINTE-A-LA-HACHE, La. (UPI) — It became illegal in Plaquemines Parish Friday to use any public facility, even a garbage dump, without a written permit.

The parish political stronghold of arch segregationist Leander H. Perez Sr., picked up the gauntlet thrown down by Ronnie Moore of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and delivered a stinging reply.

Moore demanded in a letter to the "mayor of Pointe-a-la-Hache," which found its way to Perez, that all public facilities be desegregated.

At a meeting Thursday, the five-member parish commission council gave its president, Leander Perez, authority to set up machinery for issuing permits.

Aside from garbage dumps, a new ordinance applies to public buildings, parks, playgrounds, boat docks, ferries and fishing and recreation areas.

Violation of the ordinance is punishable by a fine up to $250 or up to 60 days in jail or both.

In his letter, Moore said "public accommodations can no longer be maintained on a racially segregated basis."

He said if desegregation were not accomplished, CORE would "commence nonviolent direct action to attain the objectives of a community open to all its citizens. . . unless there is voluntary compliance with provisions of the civil rights act."

Replying to Moore, Perez, customary composure, wrote:

"Our parish governing body is the Plaquemines Parish Commission Council, of which I am president. Therefore, I answer you as follows:

"We do not recognize CORE as having any right to make demands of any kind upon us. I know that CORE is heavily infiltrated with Communists, among its directors particularly. We will not condone any Communist-directed activity in Plaquemines parish."

Perez has converted an 18th century Spanish fort in the marshes flanking the Mississippi River in the lower reaches of his parish into a stockade to house racial demonstrators.

The stockade is accessible only by boat across a mosquito and snake-infested swamp.

LBJ Names New Federal Tax Leader

Harding Moves Up To Succeed Mortimer Caplin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Friday the appointment of a new federal tax collector, Bertrand Harding, who had been serving as No. 2 man at the Internal Revenue Service.

Johnson told a news conference that Harding was appointed acting commissioner of internal revenue, replacing Mortimer M. Caplin, who resigned to open a Washington law office.

RECEIVED AWARD

Harding, a civil service worker for 23 years, received the National Civil Service League's award for top career achievement in 1962.

Johnson did not say whether Harding would direct IRS activities on a permanent basis or would hold the job on an acting basis, pending the appointment of someone else.

The President did say: "I am completely confident that Mr. Harding will carry on in an efficient and fair manner the work of the Internal Revenue Service."

It was understood, however, that Harding would serve as acting director until after the November elections, when a permanent director will be chosen.

Harding, 45, frequently has served as acting director when Caplin was out of town.

Caplin promoted him from assistant commissioner for planning and research to deputy commissioner in 1961. He joined the Internal Revenue Service in 1953, after service with the Budget Bureau, the Veterans Administration, and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Harding was born in Fort Worth, Tex., and grew up in San Antonio. He was a navigator in the Air Force during World War II. He is married and has two sons.

Caplin plans to became a tax consultant to private firms and individuals.

Caplin, who became IRS commissioner at the start of the Kennedy administration, is a former University of Virginia law professor.

Caplin, 47, gave President Johnson his resignation last May, effective Friday. He said that personal responsibilities compelled him to leave government.

As commissioner on revenue, his pay was $21,000 a year. To take the government post, he reputedly gave up an income of about $50,000 from his combined teaching and practice of law.

A HOT DOG, Bugger by name, finally found a cool spot after several days of 107-degree weather in Wichita Falls, Tex., Friday. Bugger, owned by John Brightman, found too little shade from the tree to which he was tied so he did the next best thing — he sat in his water pan. (AP Wirephoto)

Tshombe In As Congo's New Leader

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—One-time Katanga secessionist Moise Tshombe, surrounded by a Cabinet of tough but little known provincial politicians, took the helm of the Congo government as premier Friday.

With a pledge of "fidelity to the Congo and to the chief of state," Tshombe was sworn in by President Joseph Kasavubu.

STAGE SET

The ceremony, in Kasavubu's residence overlooking the Congo River rapids, sets the stage for what is expected to be the wildest election campaign in the young republic's history.

In the only other election, in 1960, Patrice Lumumba became premier.

Tshombe, who returned from exile in Spain two weeks ago, put the new government together so rapidly that two of the 10 members of his Cabinet didn't make it to Leopoldville in time for the swearing-in.

Tshombe now is faced with overcoming political and tribal rivalries that have rocked the Congo for four years. He has promised peace, dynamic leadership and elections by early next year.

An influx of foreign money can be expected as rival powers seek to influence the outcome. The Soviet government, which supported Lumumba's 1959 campaign, already has criticized the Tshombe government.

Outgoing Premier Cyrille Adoula's position was uncertain, but there were indications he would pose opposition to Tshombe. He had been caretaker premier since the June 30 dissolution of Parliament.

Tshombe took for himself the ministries of foreign affairs, information and economic coordination and planning. Kasavubu apparently will take the Defense Ministry—he announced he was assuming supreme command of the army June 30—and several posts are still vacant.

Beatles Get Wild Welcome

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) —The Beatles got a hysterical home town welcome Friday.

Thousands of teen-agers fought and screamed to get a glimpse of the mop-haired quartet. Within 20 yards of Liverpool Airport their police - escorted limousine was reduced to a crawl.

Cyclists and scooter riders—hundreds of them—rode alongside or tried to overtake their car.

TERMED MENACE

Chinese Attack Russian Leader

TOKYO (AP) — An anti-Soviet broadcast from Red China accused Premier Khrushchev on Friday of trying to "push the Soviet society back to capitalism" and called the Kremlin leader a "menace unequalled in the history of the international Communist movement."

Moscow, apparently feeling the sting of such attacks, noted that Chinese attacks accuse the Kremlin of backsliding, and the official Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda said emphatically the U.S.S.R. is not going capitalist.

The Peking broadcast quoted an attack on Khrushchev by the Red Chinese ideological ally in Europe, the Albanian party. It said Khrushchev's revisionism was "the most ferocious and dangerous enemy of socialism and communism."

QUOTES PAPER

The broadcast, quoting the Albanian newspaper Zeri I Popullit, said Khrushchev's opposition to the "personality cult" of Joseph Stalin was only a farce designed to justify the Soviet leader's current policy of peaceful coexistence. That policy, it said "is in effect going over to the side of and allying itself with imperialism."

"It is also intended to be used as a means to exert pressure on other parties, interfere in their internal affairs and get rid of leaders not to his—Khrushchev's — liking," the article said.

Pravda's Friday edition said a Soviet attempt to make profits from industry did not indicate creeping capitalism, and carried a long dissertation on the role of profits in the Soviet system.

Then, indicating a major source of annoyance on this score, Pravda said: "The Chinese depict these major features of Socialist economy as evidence of bourgeois degeneration. The purpose of these attacks is to detract public attention from the apparent economic failures of the Chinese leaders."

CORE Director Asks Governor For Protection

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The southern regional director for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) asked Gov. John J. McKeithen Friday to declare his intent to protect civil rights workers.

Richard Haley said he wired the governor, telling him workers in the CORE Louisiana summer project—voter registration—had been subjected to continuing intimidation and threats of violence.

"Your expressions of shock and promises of swift justice will be of little avail to civil rights workers who are dead or maimed at the hands of race-crazed psychopaths," Haley said in his wire.

'EARLIEST PEAK EVER'

City Power Usage Hits Record High

Monroe Utilities Commission Manager French L. Smith Friday disclosed that power usage in the city hit an all-time record high this week.

Helped by the summer's first 100 degree temperature, electric power usage in the City of Monroe peaked Wednesday at 56,800 KWH (kilowatt hours).

Smith described the usage as the "earliest peak in the season ever recorded," adding that "it's reasonable to assume it will go still higher."

"We usually hit our peak along in August, but this early heat, this unseasonably hot early summer pushed it right up," he said.

The July 8 high compares with 1963's peak load of 53,900 KWH. The load has risen steadily since 1957, the electrical system's first year of operation under the Utilities Commission.

Present capacity, after improvements two years ago, is 66,500 KWH, through a new trubine being installed and scheduled for completion by next spring will lift the maximum load to 99,500 KWH.

Peak days of usage, listed in order by Smith, include: 1957—30,600 KWH; 1958—33,400 KWH; 1959—36,400 KWH; 1960—40,300 KWH; 1961—41,800 KWH; 1962—49,900 KWH; and 1963—53,900 KWH.

Despite a likely rise to still higher figures this summer, the city official expressed confidence that present capacity at the power plant would be more than sufficient.

The new maximum, to be available for next summer's heat, is expected to suffice the city until 1969.

City To Add Theater In Civic Center

Monroe will have an excellent theater or auditorium along with its arena and convention hall in the new civic center.

This was decided Friday at a meeting of the Citizens Advisory Committee with Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard and Robert H. Evans, administrator of the capital improvement program now underway.

Originally in the plans, the theater or auditorium was not included in the overall capital improvement program.

FUNDS AVAILABLE

But Mayor Howard explained that the city was now in a position to add the theater, which numerous persons wanted originally.

"We can now do that without a bond issue or without borrowing any money," the mayor explained. "We have been able to save money here and there on the arena and convention hall without cutting the quality, and by good investment of our funds."

He pointed out that the financial condition of the city itself was in excellent shape and that the necessary money for the theater, which will cost approximately $700,000, will be available without additional cost to anyone.

Evans explained the theater would hold approximately 2234 persons and would accommodate any type musical or broadway production, in addition to being useful for numerous other events.

Both Howard and Evans explained that in checking and examining other facilities "we felt it would be a good idea to include the theater since a lot of people wanted it in the first place." The committee agreed by a unanimous vote.

"With the theater, we will be able to compete with anyone, anywhere," Evans said, adding that the entire facility would be among the best, if not the best, in the South.

The meeting was held at KNOE-TV. James A. Noe was chairman of the group, which was originally formed to help in the $11¼ million capital improvement bond issue, of which the theater, arena and convention hall are a part.

NO CAUSE ESTABLISHED

Sabotage Not Ruled Out In Thursday Night Crash

NEWPORT, Tenn. (UPI)—A spokesman for United Air Lines said Friday investigators were not ruling out the possibility of sabotage in Thursday night's crash which killed 39 persons, but that a firm probable cause still had not been established.

More than 50 investigators swarmed over the area where the for-engine Viscount went down at dusk about eight miles east of here in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains.

The wreckage of the plane was scattered over a two-mile area, but officials refused to speculate on the significance of this.

In previous accidents, such distribution has indicated disintegration in flight.

Several witnesses to the crash said the plane exploded in the sky, but others said it was intact and spewing flame and smoke when it smashed into a steep ridge.

United spokesman James A. Kennedy said "nothing is ever ruled out," when asked about the possibility of sabotage.

But he said investigators still were in the process of trying to dig out facts and put them in order.

At mid-day the plane's flight recorder still had not been found. Officials were hopeful it would give some indication of what caused the sudden disaster.

Jeeps and Army trucks were used to bring the bodies down the steep hillside.

White-coated rescue workers, wearing yellow rubber gloves, placed the victims in green, non-transparent plastic bags for the trip to a makeshift morgue set up in the Newport Memorial Building, a community center.

A stake was hammered into the ground where the body of each victim was found, and Civil Aeronautics Board investigators and Federal Aviation Agency teams covered the area taking photographs.

At 7:02 p.m., EDT, just 13 minutes before the crash, pilot Oliver E. Sabatke, 41, of Washington, D.C., made a routine contact with the Atlanta control tower and said he was switching from an instrument flight plan to visual control—indicating the weather was good at the time. Sabatke reported his altitude as 7,000 feet.

The airliner was bound from Philadelphia, Pa., to Huntsville, Ala., with stops at Washington and Knoxville, Tenn. It crashed about 45 miles east of Knoxville.

Candidates' Wives Meet At Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mrs. Barry Goldwater had her first convention meeting Friday with the wife of her husband's presidential nomination opponent, Mrs. William W. Scranton, at a fashion luncheon.

Mrs. Goldwater was flanked by relatives, two private detectives and a Goldwater staff man, at a social event for about 150 GOP national committeewomen and wives of committeemen.

The smiling meeting of the two candidates, wives in a palm-shaded rooftop flower garden was friendly. But the overtones of the campaign were evident.

Asked the hardest thing about campaigning Mrs. Goldwater said: "Having to appear before television and press people. I think that's the hardest point for me. I'm not used to it."

Mrs. Scranton, who has been making a side-by-side campaign with her husband, smiled and said, "I like it."

Gas Explosion Hurts Alex Man

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — Gas from an open pipe exploded and blew out the walls of a home here today, critically injuring one man.

The victim was Newt Baxley, 40.

Fire Chief Pearly Bonnet said Baxley was pulled from the house before fire units arrived.

He said a gas cap was found near an open gas pipe. He said the gas was probably ignited by a pilot light or water heater.

The child may collect from the real father if the adoptive father can not support him, but conditions relative to the matter would hold great bearing on whether or not support is obtained. Upon the death of the real father, however, the child would definitely be entitled to some inheritance. The amount of inheritance, of course, would depend on conditions of the adoption, number of other children and the state of affairs of the adoptive father. Does a citizen have recourse to the State Legislature to have a will changed?

There is no recourse to the Legislature to change a will, answered a Monroe legal authority. He explained, "a will, once duly written, can at any time be superseded by the writing of a new will revoking in specific terms the old will, or by a codicil properly written that could possibly revise the needed change. The preparation of wills in all particulars is so vitally important and so susceptible to fatal errors when individuals attempt to write them without legal aid, that it is always best to consult a legal authority. The Legislature has the power to change the forms in which wills are written or prepared by no other power over them.

Oak Grove Man Rescued From Lake In Area

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — The Lake Providence rescue squad pried open a door and pulled Ivan Haas, 37, of Oak Grove, from his truck, which was half submerged, upside down in Lake Providence, about midnight Thursday.

Haas, who had managed, while trapped inside the cab of the truck, to keep his head above water, was taken to the East Carroll Parish hospital suffering from cuts and bruises.

Authorities said that a passerby noticed the truck in the water and called police. When authorities arrived at the scene, at the intersection of La. Hwy. 2 and U. S. Hwy. 65, they found that the truck had ran off the road, tore down some young saplings, and went down a steep bank, before coming to rest upside down in the lake.

After the truck was pulled from the water a two-pound garr fish was found caught in the radiator grill.

Haas was charged with driving while intoxicated, police said.

Under Sharp Questioning, Goldwater Vows To Uphold Civil Rights Law

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Under almost hostile questioning by some Republican platform writers, Sen. Barry Goldwater promised Friday to uphold the civil rights law as its stands.

He won great waves of applause as he delivered, in confident and conciliatory mood, strong assurances that he expects to support any platform the GOP committee drafts—and to beat the Democrats with it in November.

But needle-sharp questions followed. Goldwater pledged himself not to seek repeal of the two portions of the Civil Rights Act he considers unconstitutional, then flared when a Negro member reopened the rights issue.

Could Goldwater "consistently, conscientiously and in good faith use the powers and prestige of the presidency to carry out the civil rights law?" asked George A. Parker of the District of Columbia.

"When you use that argument you are questioning my honesty," Goldwater snapped. "I should resent it but I won't. I'll answer your question.

Parker protested he was not questioning Goldwater's integrity.

"You are, sir," said the senator, and then repeated his pledge: "I will uphold that (law) because it is the voice of the majority. If I am your president I'll do something about this in more ways than the law."

His supporters—a big majority of the committee—applauded every Goldwater reply, while the minority—mostly backers of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania sat—sat quietly watching.

Another long exchange followed a request by delegate John Dellenback of Oregon for Goldwater to explain his views on giving European military commanders control of nuclear weapons. The delegate said there was "much concern" over the senator's position.

Goldwater said his views had been misquoted. The law clearly gives the president sole decision power in using nuclear arms, he said, and "I can't change the law."

The candidate said he was not talking about long-range or intermediate ballistic missiles, but "I am concerned about the small weapons, the kind that can be fired from the shoulder or from aircraft."

"I am fearful of a delay if the Russians might attack and we would have to reply with conventional weapons," Goldwater said.

"I would hope that something could be worked out for NATO—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization— and NATO alone."

The tone of the questioning was set by Massachusetts delegate, Janet K. Starr, who led off by telling Goldwater: "We have no intention of writing unconstitutional planks. Do you intend to run to all of them, or only those you consider constitutional?"

This evidently was a thrust at the senator's belief that two sections of the civil rights law are unconstitutional—the public accommodations and job equality provisions. Goldwater replied that only the Supreme Court could determine constitutionality, that he had no idea of seeking repeal of portions of the law.

The he repeated a promise made several times: "If I cannot honestly accept it (the platform), I will do the honest thing —I'll withdraw from the race."

The challenging questions undermined the modd of Goldwater's prepared text. That was an appeal for a platform on which all Republicans could stand in unity—not, as he said, "a bandstand for any factional chorus."

"I would not presume for a moment to tell you what should or should not go into this platform in terms of specific planks, pledges or program," the senator said.

"I look forward to running on it—as I have on all our platforms in the past—in whatever capacity available to me. I look forward confidently to this Republican party winning on that platform in November."

His gamble on acceptability of the platform outcome looked riskless as the 100-member committee prepared to lock itself into its first full platform-drafting session.

Some 65 of the 100 are Goldwater-pledged. Fewer than a score, it appeared, were ready to follow the Scranton strategy of deliberately writing planks that clash head-on with Goldwater's declared views and Senate votes, in hope of showing him outside the party's "mainstream."

So the prospect loomed large that the Scrantonites, outclassed in delegate strength, would precipitate a floor fight in the GOP National Convention next week —probably Tuesday night—in hope of capturing some Goldwater supporters with ideological bait.

Scranton's field general, Sen. Hugh Scoff of Pennsylvania, dumped on the committee Thursday night a batch of controversy-laden planks clearly intended to be embarrassing and unacceptable to Goldwater.

These included a strong civil rights plank which specifically would affirm the constitutionality of the new rights law. Scott told newsmen the platform body's executive committee rejected it in an all-night session.

Instead, Scott said, the 13-member committee approved a civil rights plank that is "wholly and completely and entirely and thoroughly unsatisfactory" to Republicans of his persuasion.

The executive group also rejected or did not act on proposed planks repudiating the John Birch Society by name, opposing any national right-to-work law, and urging civilian control of nuclear weapons.

All were aimed squarely at Goldwater. He has declined to disown the support of the John Birch Society and would oppose a plank singling out any one group. He has introduced a Senate right-to-work bill which would outlaw the union shop except in those states whose legislatures acted to legalize it.

At a news conference this afternoon Scranton critized the platform-drafting procedure. "The whole process is a rigged one," Scranton said. He charged that the proposed platform has been partially drafted "for some time."

Goldwater counterpunched Friday on the extremist issue, without mentioning either Scranton or the John Birch Society. He was disturbed to note, he said, that in preceding speakers before the Platform Committee, any mention of communism was the exception rather than the rule.

"Even in the keynote addresses it has seemed that discussion of the grim and hard facts of communism has been taboo," he said.

He got his biggest roar of approval with the sentences that followed: "We cannot meet our responsibility to peace and freedom by ignoring the single most aggressive threat to paace and freedom which is communism.

"To do so would be to compound the very weakness of the administration which we oppose. We cannot condone the foreign policy of this administration."

Motel Owner To Test Civil Rights Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government took up an innkeeper's challenge Friday and plunged into the first major legal test of the new Civil Rights Act.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy asked in Atlanta for a three-judge federal court to rule on the constitutionality of the law's controversial public accommodations section.

And he urged that the U.S. District Court compel an Atlanta motel to open its rooms and restaurant immediately to all comers, regardless of race.

The challenge was thrown barely two hours after President Johnson signed the civil rights bill into law July 2. Moreton Rolleston Jr., president of Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc., asked U.S. District Court to bar Kennedy from enforcing the public accommodations section.

Rolleston, announcing that his motel would remain all-white until the courts have ruled, contended the law unconstitutional on two counts:

— That it empowers the federal government "to take for public use part of the rights of the motel in and to its private property without any compensation" in violation of the Fifth Amendment.

— That it exceeds the constitutional authority of Congress to regulate commerce. The Constitution empowers Congress "to regulate commerce...among the several states" and to "make all laws which shall be necessary and proper to do so."

Rolleston also asked $11 million in damages from the federal government, arguing that the law's requirements would ruin his business, reputation and good will.

U.S. District Judge Frank A. Hooper has scheduled a July 17 hearing on Rolleston's suit against the Attorney General.

Kennedy and the Justice Department filed documents in Hooper's court Friday seeking to dismiss Rolleston's complaint to obtain a three-judge panel to hearing the case because of its constitutional implications, and to get a preliminary injunction to force the motel to integrate immediately.

It said the motel is engaged in a "pattern of resistance to the full enjoyment by Negroes of the right, secured by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, and accommodations of the Heart of Atlanta Motel, without discrimination or segregation on the ground of race.

The government argued further that the restaurant in the motel is established to serve the public, serves and offers to serve travelers in interstate commerce, and sells a substantial amount of food and other products that have moved across state lines.

By refusing to serve Negroes in the restaurant, the government reply went on, Rolleston is further violating the Civil Rights Act.

Rolleston's claim for damages, the government said, should be thrown out because the U.S. government has not consented to be sued, as provided by the Doctrine of Sovereign Immunity.

Union Carbide To Build At Taft

NEW YORK (AP)—Union Carbide Corp. will build a petrochemical plant near Taft, La., with a capacity of 300 million pounds of ethylene oxide annually. The company said its total investment will be $50 million.

The plant will be located on the Mississippi River about 20 miles above New Orleans. Ethylene and ethylene oxide units are due to be completed in 1966. Units to produce other chemicals and plastics will be built later, the company said.

Ethylene is used to make ethyl alcohol and plastics.

The deadlock has entered its third month, with the next meeting to be held the first part of August.

Half of the jurors favor Carl Earle for president, while the other half favor Charles Morris. Earle, the incumbent president, presides at the meetings.

Ultimatum, Blackmail

The militant organizations pushing for social revolution as outlined in the civil rights law show no signs of letting up even though President Johnson has signed the bill. This is pointed up in an ultimatum handed to a distributing company in St. Louis by the Congress of Racial Equality.

Such meddling into private business was unheard of even in the reconstruction and carpet bag days following the Civil War. The only hope for the nation as a whole — for the South no longer faces this situation alone — is for the movement to collapse under the weight of its own excesses.

The St. Louis account offers a more or less typical example. CORE officials threatened to boycott all the products of a certain brewery unless its distributing company hired 10 full-time Negro driver-salesmen and five part-time Negro truck drivers "within three weeks."

Let's suppose that this particular company, which is on record as claiming it practices "absolutely no discrimination" and employs a number of Negroes, simply does not have any openings for 15 new workers within the "next three weeks."

According to Curtis L. Lohr, president of the firm, a CORE representative told him if it was necessary to get rid of old employes to make room for new ones, the company could "fire them, shoot them or retire them."

Percy Green, chairman of the CORE employment committee, has denied making that statement. But he said his organization's position was that the distributing company is financially able to hire more drivers without firing anyone — presumably whether it has additional work for drivers to do or not.

Regardless of which statement or attitude is true, and it must be recalled that the Congress of Racial Equality is a militant civil rights organization, it is noteworthy that this demand crosses swords with both labor and management.

Here is a group which professes to seek fair employment practices for Negroes. But it has shown that it is willing to destroy them for others by trying to impose a quota system of its own reckoning through blackmail tactics.

Is this the sort of thing the new federal civil rights commissions will be legally bound to uphold as the law goes into effect?

Apparently, in order to gain their self-appointed ends, the militant racial organizations won't hesitate to ride roughshod over friends and foes alike in the many phases of social and business adjustment.

Federal Controls Resented

The liberal and moderate spokesmen for both major political parties are trying to label certain fundamentalist organizations as "unacceptable." For example, Governor Scranton's supporters have been trying to work some sort of plank into the GOP platform which would clearly state that the John Birch Society should be denounced. For some unknown reason, the U. S. Communist Party was not to receive the same distinction.

But it is evident now that far more than a handful of citizens are showing discontent with the dictatorial trends in government. This discontent does not follow specific party lines, since both Republicans and Democrats have their so-called liberals and conservatives.

Now that more people are employed, earning more money at face value than ever before and many are enjoying the benefits of a tax cut, why all the uneasiness?

Perhaps the answer lies in what the so-called "progressive" factions of both parties have been offering —a "great society" of government sponsored cushions against adversity—wars against poverty—with the challenges and risks deleted. Great plans are being made and talked up, but the ordinary citizen has no part in them other than paying his taxes.

Nobody seeks adversity. But man will often risk his belongings and even his life for good causes, the cause of personal or family progress, even for adventure. This may be a characteristic of our people which the paternalistic politicians overlook or fail to comprehend. The desire to try and make good—or merely the urge to try—far outreaches the desire to receive welfare from the government.

This fact of human nature may arise to plague the political planners.

On the other hand, there is a growing resentment against the barrage of strongly-worded advice we get from our federal friends. This extends to big things such as requirements that our federal relief programs must meet federal standards or the federal funds will be cut off.

Louisiana experienced just such a thing concerning welfare monies several years ago when state regulations regarding support payments for illegitimate children were altered at the state level.

Now these federal controls are extending to smaller and more intimate matters. One announcement says that the Federal Housing Administration will attempt to "stimulate" good design in homes "through the appraisal process."

In other words, if the federal inspectors don't like the looks of your house as you and your family have planned it, you might not be able to mortgage it for what it's really worth.

A government or an administration so intrusive that it will use our own tax money to dictate our tastes in our home planning or decoration may be risking more serious dissent at the polls than it realizes.

One More Report

One set of statistics shows that the nation's independent business proprietors must spend nearly $2 billion each year for the filling out of government forms.

This estimate came from C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Independent Businesses, Incorporated. Harder commented: "This is costly, time consuming, and much of it serves no useful purpose except to furnish more work for more bureaucrats."

Along with other business organizations, he is backing Representative Arnold Olsen, Montana Democrat and chairman of a House Post Office subcommittee, who is currently leading an investigation of the federal paperwork jungle.

One principal target of the probe is a matter of more than 200 different federal and state forms, some of which require separate copies for each employe. The Census Bureau alone has 50 forms, Internal Revenue, 40, and the Department of Labor, 25.

More than 20 federal bureaus have forms which all or part of the business community is required to file—some at frequent intervals and many of them duplicating the effort and information required for other form filling.

One of the larger manufacturers of agricultural products in the Midwest reportedly spent 48,285 man-hours filing a total of 37,683 reports for the federal government alone.

We hope Representative Olsen's investigation results in a sharp reduction in the number of government forms in the long run. But since it is itself a congressional investigation, we may be sure of one thing. It will result in hundreds—perhaps thousands — of pages of testimony and certainly one more report.

List Of GOP Vice Presidential Prospects Must Include Dirksen

TO THE LIST of possible Republican vice presidential nominees, very definitely add the name of Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen.

Dirksen several times has said emphatically that he does not want to run and would much prefer to continue as minority leader of the United States Senate, but the strategy of Senator Barry Goldwater, the almost certain Republican nominee for President, may include the Illinois solon as the strongest selection for second place, and the only one — with the possible exception of Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania, whom Goldwater does not like — who might help swing a major State for the ticket.

When he places Goldwater in nomination, as he did the late Senator Robert A. Taft at the Republican convention in 1952, Dirksen is expected to make one of the better speeches of a convention which may not be notable for its oratorical performance.

THAT COULD set the stage for his selection as the Vice Presidential nominee. But in addition to that, he is riding high in party circles for his patient effort in redrafting a civil rights bill which could never have passed in the form it came from the House. For that, the Johnson administration should also be grateful to him and though it would not attract many Democratic votes to a Goldwater-Dirksen ticket, it would serve to palliate some of the northern criticism of Senator Goldwater for his vote against civil rights.

Such an effect would possibly be more evident among the delegates than among voters looking forward to November. Goldwater has said that civil rights should not be a major issue in the campaign. That is too much to hope for. But the White House also wishes that it may come true, and President Johnson will no doubt place other proposals in his program on which no action has yet been taken by Congress above civil rights in his acceptance speech at Atlantic City and in subsequent expressions.

Dirksen's reluctance is due to his age, which is 68 and to his health which is now better than for some years past. But he is the type who can be described as a party wheel horse and his long and close friendship with Goldwater, whom he originally persuaded to run for the Senate in Arizona would make the ticket itself a symbol of party harmony, Dirksen supporters say.

ASIDE FROM Governor Scranton, whose bitter attacks on Goldwater can hardly be forgotten, possible vice presidential nominees include Senator Thruston Morton of Kentucky, who is not well known nationally, though a highly able party figure, and several virtually unknowns, including Representative Gerald Ford of Michigan and Representative William E. Miller of New York, Republican National Committee Chairman, neither of whom would add much to a ticket which obviously needs all the strength it can get.

Former President Eisenhower is obviously angling for the nomination as Vice President for his brother Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University, who will place Governor Scranton in momination. He sounded out several Republican leaders on that at Gettysburg some months ago, but found them cool. Nevertheless it is believed by some Republicans that one of the ex-President's reasons for not endorsing any candidate, and drawing back from his earlier implied criticism of Goldwater, is to avoid, insofar as possible any resentment which might be directed at his brother.

Milton Eisenhower however is likely to be hurt rather than helped by his elder brother's failure to exercise any vestige of leadership in this tangled campaign for the Republican nomination. The trailing candidates who have concentrated their support behind Scranton privately criticize General Eisenhower for his failure to endorse Governor Scranton, as he once seemed to indicate he would.

DIRKSEN, until he decided that the Republican party could not withhold its aid in trying to fashion a civil rights bill which could pass the Senate, was only moderately well known, over the country, though highly regarded by the conservative leaders of his party.

SINCE HE came to the House of Representatives in 1933, after successfully bucking the strong Roosevelt tide to be elected in Illinois, Dirksen has attained and preserved a reputation for independence which has even brought him the grudging regard of the Republican liberals who planned to take over GOP control, but never quite made it, partly because he helped block them.

He has made no secret in almost 30 years of Congressional service that he would like to have the GOP nomination for President himself, even announcing his candidacy in 1944, when he opened a small headquarters in Chicago. But the power of the Dewey organization made plain that he could make no headway. After that, he supported Senator Taft and his own presidential aspirations were shut off by the Eisenhower election.

HE GAVE fresh evidence of his independence by differing from Eisenhower a number of times, even after he became Senate minority leader in 1958.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Face Problems, Avoid Excuses

We have ways of explaining away our bad habits. One heavy smoker says it can't be so bad considering how it relieves his tenseness. A heavy eater says he thinks it's better than smoking two packs a day as he used to. A drinker says he may drink but he doesn't overeat and oversmoke like some people he knows.

As I say, we always have some excuse of one kind or another. But there are some who face up to a problem and do something about it. There's no fooling as far as they are concerned. For example:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Everybody seems to be having their say about being fat so I thought I would have mine, too. I don't understand why people are always making excuses.

Before any readers jump at me, let me say I'm not one of those who have always been nice and slim. I still don't consider myself thin although I get many compliments on my looks.

ABOUT FOUR years ago I weighed 152 pounds and looked like I was melted and poured into a size 14 dress. I was terrible looking as I am only 5 feet tall. Now I wear a size 11 dress but still am trying for a 10 or 9.

I have five children, the oldest is 8 years and youngest 11 months. But why use that or marriage as excuses? Did you ever stop to think men put up with worse things than having a fat wife to come home to? Why add one more to the list? My husband now takes a lot more interest in what I wear and what I look like than he did before, and is so much more loving. I sew my own clothes and sew for my three little girls, too.

I say to women, why let yourself go? Try looking at yourself through other people's eyes. Get in front of your mirror and look and see what you see.

When people look at the children they look at the mother, too. Children have feelings and they would rather have a mother that they can be proud of. Ask any teen-ager. They realize it.

MY OLDEST can remember what I used to look like. When I'm dressing now she'll say, "Mother you look so nice, now." Boy, it sure makes you feel good. — Mrs. T.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I carry our morning paper, and often I go to sleep in school. I'm usually in bed at 9:30 through the week days, and I rise at 4:30. I'm 15 and I guess I'm in good health. Could something be wrong with me? — C.G.

Comment: My guess is the only thing wrong with you is lack of sufficient sleep. A boy your age needs much more than you're getting. I used to have the same trouble when I was 14. I bought an afternoon paper route instead so I could get more sleep and my tiredness and sleepiness went away.

Better give up your morning route. If you still fall asleep in school on the new regime, there'll be time enough to see a doctor to check on your physical condition. As I said, and I'll repeat it for your peace of mind, my guess is that you are all right.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 49 years old and recently learned through my doctor that I have rheumatic heart disease. I have been short of breath lately. My doctor has not prescribed any medicine except added rest and advised my giving up smoking. Is it possible I could have an undetected murmur so many years? — Mr. W.

Comment: It's possible. Some murmurs are difficult to hear. However, careful scrutiny and examination usually reveals their presence.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How To Get a Good Night's Sleep," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Dirty Campaign Against Barry

Of one thing, both the pundits and the practical politicans are agreed. The campaign ahead will undoubtedly be the dirtiest in a century. Those with a historical bent are, in fact, comparing it to the election of 1860, in which his opponents did everything but assassinate Abraham Lincoln.

Such gentle ax-work as the map of the United States showing which countires were lost by Al Smith to Herbert Hoover in 1928 because of the Catholic issue — distributed by the Lyndon Johnson forces just before the 1960 Democratic convention — will be child's play.

Religion will enter into it, of course. The groundwork for the bigotry campaign against Barry Goldwater has already been laid by George Lincoln Rockwell, the American Nazi, and by other extremist groups. The left wing has begun to use the "fascist" label against Mr. Goldwater, which should prove something or other to those ready to believe this vicious nonsense, but won't.

THE MAIN thrust of the attack on Mr. Goldwater, however, will be in the wholesale and systematic distortion of his position on important issues. Already, otherwise respectable columnists and pundits have begun to proliferate this misinformation to their readers. But a perfect example of what lies ahead has been handed to us on a platter by John Bailey, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

To a group of his fellow Democrats in Pittsburgh, Mr. Bailey attempted to put the tag of "the great defoliator" on Senator Goldwater. The Democratic national chairman is a well-read man, and one who scans the newspapers very carefully for political news. When he said what follows, it could not have been an unconscious error. The matter had been too often discussed in his presence at strategy sessions.

But listen:

"It is not surprising Barry Goldwater should propose to burn up all the foliage in Vietnam with atomic weapons," said Mr. Bailey.

Perhaps it is silly to belabor the point. But he knew that the question of burning up "all the foliage in Vietnam" had never come up. Senator Goldwater had simply stated that a suggestion had been made to defoliate a strip along the Vietnamese border in order to prevent the infiltration of Viet Cong guerrillas and their supplies. He added, moreover, that this would never be done. By taking his words out of context, certain elements in the press made it seem that he endorsed this very limited defoliation.

BUT IT took Mr. Bailey, a responsible Democratic official, to tell an audience that Mr. Goldwater wanted to burn the leaves of the entire country. If Senator Goldwater or one of his aides had so wildly distorted the statement of President Johnson, the entire press would have been up in arms. They would have demanded explanations and made a scandal that would have lasted until Election Day.

Mr. Bailey, however, was not even slapped across the wrist — and I know of no repercussions to his attack. Let me add, hastily, that there was no reaction from the Goldwater camp. The slumbering press people at Goldwater headquarters either did not see the story or they thought it of no consequence. For this, they bear some responsibility, although I am sure they would point out that any outcry on their part would have been ignored. The double standard in Washington is a beautiful thing to behold.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Platform Does Not Have Court Powers

Governor William Scranton, who is now more or less officially desperate for attention, has proposed to the Republican Platform Committee that it declare the Civil Rights Act constitutional. The Governor reminds one of the Indiana Assemblyman who some years ago rose to move that the State Legislature declare that the value of pi should thenceforward be a convenient 3, instead of the troublesome 3.14159.

The meaning of the Constitution is not, to be sure, as readily establishable as the constant figure which, multiplied by the diameter, will always yield a circle's circumference. But it is hardly up to a Platform Committee to postulate the constitutionality of any particular Act of Congress.

To the extent that doing so means anything at all, it is a redundancy — Congress obviously believes the measure to be constitutional, and there is little the Platform Committee can do to add or detract from the Congress's initial authority over such matters. And to the extent the Governor's motion is an attempt to sway the judgment of Senator Goldwater, it is merely another of the Governor's growing collections of eggs — Goldwater is not likely to modify a judgment reached after so scrupulous an examination of conscience, under pressure from a politician who is showing himself to be about as subtle as Tarzan.

TAKE ANOTHER ineptitude. Mr. Scranton is to be nominated by Dr. Milton Eisenhower. Now Milton Eisenhower has a great deal of influence on Dwight Eisenhower, but no influence at all, except perhaps a negative influence (earned by his identification with a sort of ritualistic internationalism) on the average Republican delegate. No doubt Governor Scranton, in trying to woo Dwight Eisenhower, is massaging all the General's vanities, and most probably promised him that in the event of Scranton's accession to the White House, he would make Milton head of the world, or whatever. But so far, the General has not budged—and Scranton is left looking like the man who invited the mother-in-law to the party as a means of luring the star: but only the mother-in-law turned up, and proceeded to bore everyone to death.

—Again: Governor Scranton demands that the Republican Platform repudiate the John Birch Society by name, and further "demands," to quote the AP dispatch, to know Senator Goldwater's view on the Society. That is very much like "demanding "to know Hubert Humphrey's views on civil rights. Goldwater has said again and again that he will not repudiate individual members of the Society, but that he believes that the views of the Society's leader, as expressed in the Book, The Politician, are cockeyed, and disqualify Mr. Welch from effective leadership.

—What is interesting at this moment is not the morality of the Governor's question, but its political usefulness. The moral issue disintegrates under scrutiny. American politics is the pitting of one against another fluid coalition. Nobody asked John F. Kennedy to repudiate the views of all Democrats in the South, and if he had done so he'd have been as much an idiot as the man who proposed that he should. Similarly, Goldwater will not repudiate a group of people who think of themselves merely as the stiffest anti-Communists and anti-socialists in America, and never mind the aberrations of their leader Mr. Robert Welch. (FDR went so far in 1940 as to refuse to repudiate the vote of the Communist Party!)

BUT AS a political maneuver, Mr. Scranton's demands are maladroit because once again, Scranton will have offended the delegates — whose support he above all other things wants at this moment. The delegates will feel that by his public reference to the Birch Society, Scranton has implied that the Birch Society is in control of, or at least exercising a decisive influence on, Barry Goldwater. In fact the Society exercises no such influence on him: but so roundly has it been cursed up and down and across the land during these years, that such a suggestion by an influential Republican does positive damage to the prospects of the Party this fall, given its inevitable refusal to disavow the Society in the forthcoming Platform. So that Scranton, once again, antagonizes those he is supposed to be trying to seduce.

—Then there is the matter of Mr. Scranton's complaints about the attacks on his "patriotism" by right-wing extremists, one of whom Mr. Scranton had particularly in mind, who has charged him with being "soft on Communism." For a man (a) who belts out the kind of criticism the Governor has been making of Senator Goldwater, and who (b) gladly accepts the support of such as Mr. Rockefeller and Drew Pearson (who have all but accused Senator Goldwater of raping the decalogue), to weep publicly over the excessive rhetoric of one New Orleans pamphleteer is not to produce the desired effect. Self-pity can be moving, as Hamlet proved in his famous soliloquy: but how much pity would Hamlet have gotten if it had been he who murdered his father and married his mother?

Man Decides To Tell All In Police Probe

NEW YORK (UPI)—William J. Hussey, retired telephone company official and key figure in an investigation of police-bookie corruption, decided Friday to "tell all" to the Brooklyn district attorney — three days before his scheduled grand jury appearance.

Hussey, accused of tipping off bookies about planned police raids, insisted until Friday morning that he dealt with police only in an official capacity as head of New York Telephone Company security in Brooklyn, Queens, and Staten Island. But he suddenly changed his story "after three sleepless nights" in Manhattan's Civil Prison.

Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Aaron E. Koota said Hussey called him from prison and said "I want to tell everything I know — want to get everything off my chest." As quick as police could bring him to Brooklyn, Hussey was "singing" to authorities in the district attorney's office, Koota said.

Koota qutoed the dapper 59-year-old Hussey as saying he had been "big daddy" to 500 telephone company employes and policemen.

Hussey has been held in $75,000 bail as a material witness in the corruption case, which is the object of investigation by one Brooklyn grand jury and three in Manhattan. The Brooklyn grand jury, where Hussey was scheduled to testify first, was in recess until Monday.

Judge West Criticized By Higher Court

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A sharply critical federal appeals court today directed U.S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West to order a rural Louisiana parish to submit a school desegregation plan for this fall.

A decision of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Judge West, of Baton Rouge, had stalled the case, failed to accept judicial responsibility and wasted judicial time.

The case involves tiny St. Helena Parish, located 50 miles north of New Orleans across Lake Pontchartrain.

Four years ago U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright of New Orleans, who is now an appeals judge in Washington, directed St. Helena Parish's school board to desegregate its classrooms.

But Judge West set no date for integration and did not tell the board to submit a plan.

Today's decision, signed by Chief Judge Elbert Tuttle of Atlanta, and Circuit Judges John Minor Wisdom of New Orleans and Richard T. Rives of Montgomery, Ala., came in response to a petition filed by the Negro plaintiffs who have spent 11 years in court seeking desegregation of St.Helena schools.

"In this case neither the school authority nor the district court has accepted its responsibility," said the opinion written by Tuttle.

"The courts can ill afford the judicial time required to consider the case of every municipal, county or parish school board of education two or three times through the whole gamut of litigation . . . for the granting of an order that was apparent from the start was already overdue," Tuttle said.

NEW ASSISTANT ADDED

Service Office Aids Veterans In Parish

By CAROL BRAXTON

World Staff Writer

A retired Army sergeant and Navy lieutenant are working side by side at the Veteran's Service Office in the courthouse in Monroe to assist the 12,000 veterans in Ouachita Parish.

Fred Ragland, Ouachita service officer, has a new assistant, Sidney (Sam) L. Harrison who recently retired from the U. S. Army after 23 years of service. The office is set up under the auspices of the Louisiana Department of Veteran's Affairs with headquarters in Baton Rouge.

The office which has been operating since 1932 has served veterans as far back as the Confederate War. It also aids veterans of the Civil War, Spanish-American War and World Wars I and II.

Set up under the state civil service, the service office helps veterans and their dependents in filing and developing claims for hospitalization, burial allowances, death benefits, education and vocational rehabilitation benefits.

Ragland and Harrison counsel and assist not only veterans but duty personnel with such problems as medical care, identification cards, family allotments, National Service Life Insurance and U. S. Government Life Insurance.

The parish office has 21,000 files that they are in the process of going over. Some of these are dead or inactive and the two ex-servicemen, Ragland and Harrison, are busy making an office history from some of it. They have discharge certificates from the Civil War, World War I and II and the Korean War. They are now trying to find one from the Spanish-American War.

There are three Civil War veteran's widows living in this parish who are being served by the veteran's service. Five veterans from the Spanish - American War are presently being helped by the officers.

Monetary benefits secured through this office and the claims offices of the Veteran's Administration for the fiscal year ending June, 1963 amounted to $2,083,005.

The 62 Louisiana service offices are governed by state civil service regulations. It is completely separate from the Veteran's Administration, which is a federal agency, but all monetary claims and benefits are handled through VA channels.

Ragland aid that his office "cooperates in every way possible" with the VA, but "the two are not the same."

Harrison explained that the service office "represents" the veteran and his dependents.

Part of the two men's job entails seeing an average of 35 veterans a day. They make home visits and visit veterans in local hospitals.

A veteran is a man or woman who has been connected with the armed services during wartime. A female veteran is entitled to the same benefits as her male counterpart.

The service office is financed through contributions from the Ouachita Parish Police Jury and the cities of Monroe and matching funds from the state.

There are two claims offices, one at the VA regional office in New Orleans and the other in the VA center in Shreveport.

Harrison said that some people are confused over the difference in the two terms, "compensation" and "pension." Compensation, Ragland stated, is monetary benefit payable for disability acquired while on active duty in the service. Veterans of a war and their dependents are eligible if the veteran is permanently and totally disabled, unemployable and if they meet certain income limitations.

Men in the service during peacetime could be eligible for disability compensation but not for a pension. They have to have been on active duty and there are no income restrictions in order to receive it.

Dependents of veterans could possibly be eligible for one of two benefits, dependency - indemnity compensation or pension. Dependency - indemnity compensation is payable for either death of the veteran while in service or death from a service - connected disability.

A death pension is payable to the widow or children of a veteran with income limitations.

Ragland retired from the U.S. Navy in 1947 as a lieutenant. He had served in the Navy since 1929. The former Navy man was at Pearl Harbor when it was attacked December 7, 1941. He has been working with veterans in Ouachita Parish for 13 years.

Harrison had been a recruting officer with a Master Sergeant's rank in the Monroe area off and on for 12 years. He retired in May.

California Solon Criticizes Civil Rights Activity

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Rep. James B. Utt, R-Calif., describes civil rights activity in Mississippi as "an invasion of starry eyed students" that is seriously hampering the state's efforts to work out its own problems.

Utt, who lives in Santa Ana, made his remarks in a speech before a service club audience Thursday night.

He said the ultimate purpose of the demonstrations in Mississippi is to create such a disturbance that the federal government can justify moving in and taking over.

"When this happens," he continued, "the government will invoke search and seizure powers and take over control of the state."

Utt said the students now active in Mississippi were trained in subversion and civil disobedience and are infiltrated with communist workers.

No New Area Rabies Cases In June

Public health officials are hopefully keeping their fingers crossed that the rabies epidemic which began 1st September has died out in the Monroe area.

There were no new cases of rabies reported by the Regional Laboratory of the Ouachita Parish Health Unit during the month of June. The last incident of the disease occurred in Bastrop in May. J. S. Crow, 51, received a scratch on his forearm from a dog which was rabid. He took the series of 14 rabies shots for two weeks.

The administrator of the laboratory, Miss Florence Drach, said that no one in this region who was bitten by a rabid animal died as a result of the disease.

The laboratory made 192 examinations for rabies on squirrels, horses, cows, cats, pigs, skunks, raccoons, rats and mice from September, 1963 through June 1964, according to Miss Drach.

Records at the lab showed that 13 persons were bitten by rabid animals during the rabies outbreak.

Since Jan. 1, Miss Drach said, the lab examined five dogs, eighteen foxes and two cows for rabies. The largest number of examinations in a single month occurred in March when there were seven foxes and two dogs tested for the disease.

The number of examinations is running pretty much the same as it was last year, but these figures do not include the outbreak of rabies cases during September, October and November of 1963.

The area west of the Ouachita River, Miss Drach elaborated, seemed to be the source of much of the rabies activity in this area. There were only occasional cases of the disease recorded elsewhere.

The administrator said that in 1954-55 there was quite an epidemic of the disease in South Monroe. There were also numberous cases in Jackson and Union parishes and other parts of Ouachita parish during that period.

These same three parishes were the center of the fox and dog biting incidents during the past year.

Hydrophobia, commonly known as rabies, simply means a fear of water. Spasms of the muscles which are used for swallowing cause a rapid, painful expulsion of liquid when the animal or person with rabies tries to swallow. Therefore, whenever the rabid animal or person smells, sees or hears water, constrictions in the throat are likely to result.

There are two types of rabies, dumb rabies which is general paralysis, and regular rabies which is progressive paralysis due to a breakdown of the nerve cells.

Rabies is transmitted by the bite of a rabid animal, including humans. The disease is caused by negri bodies, viruses, which get into the nervous system.

During the outbreak in 1963-64, Miss Drach said that one of the causes of so many cases cropping up was that D'Arbonne Lake was formed and wild animals were driven out of their habitat. Numerous incidents of rabid foxes were recorded. The "mad" foxes seldom bit people but they would bite dogs and the dogs would then bite people, Miss Drach explained.

Usually 14 shots are given to treat the disease, however, sometimes 21 shots have to be given. The dosage depends on where the person was bitten. The shots have to be taken every day.

If a person fails to get rabies diagnosed and treated death will occur within 10 to 34 days after being bitten. Onset of the symptoms is similar to those in influenza—fever, headache, nausea and sore throat, Miss Drach said.

Miss Drach said that there were three diagnostic methods for determining whether an animal was rabid. These are direct smear, a sample of the animals brain is taken and smeared on a slide; flourescing anti-body method, a staining method for electro-microscopic slides; and animal inoculation, washings from the suspected animal's brain cells are injected into a mouse. If the mouse dies, rabies is diagnosed.

Bail Bondsman To Be Charged

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A bail bondsman will be charged with contempt of the grand jury Monday following his appearance Thursday before the Orleans parish grand jury.

The bondsman, Nick Christiana is involved in a row with Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison and the legislature. Garrison notified a criminal court that the bondsman had refused to testify and had taken the Fifth Amendment. The court was asked to set a hearing time for the charge.

Garrison had subpoenoed Christiana and Patrick McGittigan, another bail bondsman, in connection with his contention that public bribery figured in the legislature's passage of the bail bonding act.

IN VIET NAM

Retaliation May Be Used By U.S.

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The United States may institute a "tit-for-tat" plan of military action against Communist North Viet Nam if South Viet Nam is going down the drain.

Qualified sources in reporting this Friday expressed belief that such a time is not at hand.

There are indications top Washington officials recently have been studying a number of possible contingency plans involving direct military action against North Viet Nam.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Under the "tit-for-tat" plan, U.S. planes might be called upon to bomb one North Vietnamese hamlet for each hamlet destroyed by Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam; or bomb a bridge or destroy a road or railway in the north for comparable Viet Cong damage in the south.

Such a plan is one possibility in a wide range of possible courses of action that has been under study. A more extreme approach could involve actual bombing of factories in North Viet Nam, and possibly Hanoi, the capital.

By all indications none of these plans apparently has been adopted, and decisions to invoke any of them presumably would be made only by President Johnson.

Proponents of direct military action against North Viet Nam argue that the Viet Cong would have great difficulty staying in business if the north were under attack, and bombing Hanoi would have a demoralizing effect on Communist agents throughout Southeast Asia.

But current U.S. thinking is that the "Viet Cong snake probably would take a long time to die even with its head cut off."

While Viet Cong gets some supplies and arms from outside South Viet Nam and while many of its cadres were trained in the north, the main force of the Viet Cong is southern. The overwhelming majority of its weapons have been seized from South Vietnamese troops.

The argument against the effectiveness of direct attacks in the north is based on intelligence estimates that the Viet Cong has 60,000 to 80,000 men in arms, few of whom could be expected to give up fighting immediately.

In any case, the war in the south would have to be continued with action against the north considered as a supplement to the main campaign.

U.S. officials are modestly optimistic about prospects in South Viet Nam, and feel the new pacification plans is beginning to bear a little fruit. This plan is to secure areas in South Viet Nam, win over the people with aid and other measures, and protect them from reprisals by the Viet Cong.

J. Molony, branch manager.

The manager said that the planned visit is a continuation "of the policy of the SBA to make its services more convenient to the small businessman and banks in the Monroe area."

Molony stated that persons planning to see Troescher should take a recent balance sheet and profit and loss statement for the past three years to the interview.

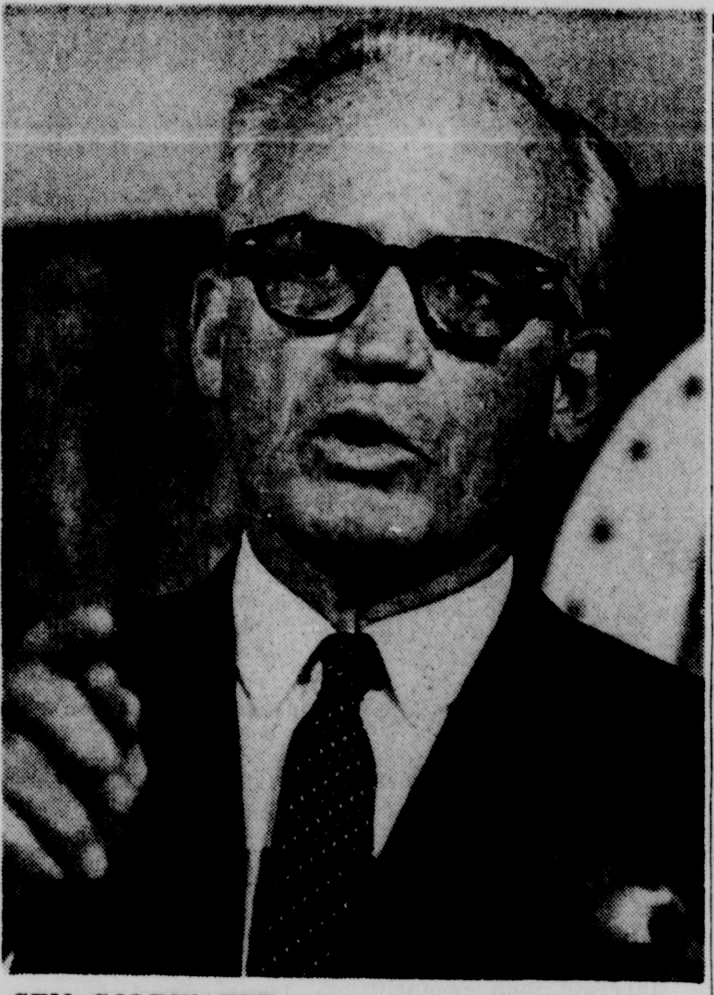
"It is planned that a representative of SBA will visit Monroe monthly," Molony said.

UNDERGROUND PROVIDES UNIQUE CAVE-SITTERS

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — You have all heard of baby-sitters but now for the first time there are cave-sitters.

So parents can tour Meramec Caverns here without worrying what to do with their little children, the management provides them with girls who will sit with them.

The cave, located on U.S. 66, started the cave-sitting service because so many motorists on the highway stopped at the cave and insisted on carrying their children with them. It made the parents and fellow tourists uncomfortable.



SEN. GOLDWATER points a finger for emphasis as he tells George A. Parker, a Negro delegate to the Republican convention, that he will enforce the new civil rights law if he is elected president. IN WEST MONROE

Contest Is Planned For Tulip Festival

A gardens contest has been added as a feature of the West Monroe Tulip Festival next spring. Plans were mapped for the late - March event—including parades, tours and the naming of a queen — at a meeting Friday of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce tulip committee.

Chairman George Tyner announced details of the contest, which will feature both residential and commercial divisions. It will be open to any resident in Ouachita Parish west of the Ouachita River, whose garden includes tulips.

The contest is expected to stimulate interest in the tulip, in the Chamber's drive to make West Monroe and northeast Louisiana the "Tulip Capital of the United States."

"There will be two main categories in which winners will be chosen — residential and commercial," Tyner explained. "The residential gardens will then be divided into two judging categories of small and large, the small gardens with less than 500 tulip bulbs and the large gardens with 500 or more."

Three blue ribbons will be given in each of the residential categories, from which a Grand Champion will be selected to receive other awards and recognition.

The commercial division of the contest also will be subdivided into small and large categories and plaques will be awarded a winner in each event," Tyner said.

The Chamber, in a sale currently underway, is acting as intermediary in collecting orders for tulip bulbs to be placed direct with a dealer in Holland. Delivery will be in October.

"Those wishing to enter gardens in the contest may secure entry blanks when the bulbs are distributed this fall," Chamber Manager Eugene Smith said. He stressed that the plants need not have been purchased through the Chamber to qualify an entrant. However, gardens must include tulips.

"The prizes are certainly worthy of everyone's participation," Smith said. "Everyone residing in west Ouachita Parish is eligible to compete, except, of course, Jack Bagwell (a nursery operator) who is a professional at this job."

Bert Hatten, Chamber president, expressed "great satsifaction" with the "tremendous enthusiasm the tulip program has generated throughout this area."

"There still is time to place your order by calling the Chamber office," Tyner said.

Crews Clearing Riverbank Area In West Monroe

Crews were working again Friday on a West Monroe riverbank improvement project that eventually is expected to clear most of the area from the old traffic bridge to the Lazarre Street landing. Plans also call for the addition over a period of picnic facilities and boat ramps.

Work Friday, done by Tensas Levee Board personnel, included mainly the laying of dirt on a well-worn roadway over the levee on South Riverfront Street.

Clearing operations are virtually complete from the old bridge to the I-20 bridge, according to Ed Seymour of the levee board and Chairman A. L. DeLoach Jr. of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

The two organizations are cooperating in the project, along with city officials.

Also virtually completed is clearing of an area over the levee at Lazarre Street. That area already has been sodded, as will be the Riverfront strip.

Other plans include the opening of two new access roads along Riverfront, at the extreme north and south ends of the strip, and provision of underground drainage for several outlets emerging through the levee, DeLoach said.

State help is anticipated in the construction of at least one concrete boat ramp under the I-20 bridge.

Two Are Booked By Officers On Battery Counts

Two counts of battery were reported by Twin City law enforcement officers Friday, with one person booked on an aggravated count and another on a simple battery count.

Booked in Monroe for aggravated battery was Tommy Lee Duncan, 17, 812 Ouachita Ave., after his arrest at Tucker's Grocery at 12:30 p.m. Friday. West Monroe authorities booked Francis Thompson, 32, 109 McClendon St., on a simple battery charge after her arrest at Gentry's Country Kitchen at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Albert Hopkins, 47, of 414 Atkinson St., Monroe, was booked on theft charges after his arrest on a warrant at 2:30 a.m. Carrie Bell Lawrence, 31, of 1005 Louise Anne Ave., was booked on a forgery count after her arrest at 2 p.m. at her residence.

The Ouachita Parish Sheriff's department reported Friday that a car stolen here Tuesday had had been recovered in Carlsbad, N. M. and the theft suspects apprehended. According to the sheriff's department, the suspects will be picked up by a parish deputy sometimes next week.

The vehicle, belonging to Louisiana Power and Light Co., was reported stolen from a Monroe car lot Tuesday night.

Monroe police booked Joseph Manuel Zanco, 30, of Stucky Apts., S. Grand Street, Monroe, on charges of illegal possession of a dangerous weapon. Zanco was arrested at the Kopper Kettle on Louisville Avenue at 1:20 a.m. Friday.

Selma Marie Rivers, 39, of 2705 Prospect St., was booked by Monroe authorities on a worthless check charge after her arrest at 8:40 p.m. Friday.

West Monroe police booked J. P. McConothy, 32, of 1015 N. 3rd St., West Monroe, on charges of driving while intoxicated and causing a wreck after his arrest at Crosley and Cypress Streets at 9:25 p.m. Friday.

Twin City law enforcement agencies also reported several minor traffic violations.

Sicily Island Plans To Build Water System

SICILY ISLAND (Special) — Plans to build a water system and purchase a fire truck were discussed at a meeting of the town council here recently.

Sicily Island now has no municipal water system and has applied to the state Bond and Tax Commission asking permission to buy the town's first fire truck, a 1200-gallon tank vehicle costing about $7,000.

A Federal Housing Administration representative talked on borrowing money for installing the water system. The town project engineer also met with FHA officials in Alexandria Tuesday to discuss the loan.

STATE LEGISLATIVE TALLY

Thorny Issues Still Left For Fall Special Session

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Legislative burdens rested on Gov. John McKeithen Friday.

First estimates of the number of bills passed by the 60-day session which ended Thursday were 550 to 575, of which McKeithen already had signed 109 and vetoed a half-dozen.

The tally sheet showed McKeithen won approval of most of his program, but perhaps the most thorny public issues still lay ahead.

These included the $48.8 million pay boost sought for teachers and other school employes, and redistricting of the eight Congressional seats and the state Senate along equal population lines.

A special session looms this fall, possibly starting Oct. 19. Some of the big issues shunted aside in the regular session may be tackled then. One cent boost are being talked for the sales and gasoline taxes. The presidential race will be in full swing.

McKeithen signed the $574 million general appropriations bill which supports the state's $971 million budget made up of federal and state monies.

He recalled his signature on a controversial bill to take about $750,000 in oil revenues from the Lafourche Basin Levee District and turned it over to the Education Department for use by Nicholls State College at Thibodaux.

The pride of the administration, the Code of Ethics Act, was passed and signed. A companion constitutional amendment goes to the voters for a decision Nov. 3.

The tax credits system for users of natural gas also will go to the voters in November. A special foreign trade sub-zone was set up for St. Charles Parish to make way for a $50 million industry.

The 2.3 cent levy on each 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas, used primarily for teacher pay, won an indefinite extension in face of a scheduled expiration. This is tied in with the tax credits system.

The legislature also approved administration proposals to have the state underwrite a college student loan program, to list publicly unclassified state workers, and to centralize state purchasing, printing and engraving.

The governor had to drop his plan for a Gulf South Research Institute with $10 million in bonding authority.

McKeithen ran into a hornet's nest in his efforts to compromise the issues surrounding workmen's compensation between labor and management. He abandoned these efforts and set up a study of the whole problem.

A boost from $35 to $40 a week in jobless pay won approval.

Legislation to put rural electric cooperatives under the publice service commission's jurisdiction met veto by McKeithen.

The increased retirement benefits enacted two years ago for lawmakers were repealed.

Backers of Alabama Gov. George Wallace for president failed to set up an electors primary in his behalf. A July 24 court hearing is scheduled here on the constitutionality of the legislature's delegation of authority to party central committees to name electors.

The legislature approved overwhelmingly legislation to boost from two to six months the time allowed for bail bondsmen to produce in court accused persons who skip out. This drew claims by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison of New Orleans, a McKeithen backer, that there was bribery.

The legislature censured Garrison for what it called irresponsible and libelous statements. He counter-charged he had affidavits concerning payoffs. After a conference with Garrison, McKeithen said he would sign the bill into law to uphold the legislature's integrity.

A new trust code was enacted.

The legislature passed several resolutions concerning issues which were sidestepped.

One resolution called for boosts in welfare payments to old folk when the money can be found, adding there were a number of other boosts needed — in highways, welfare, public works and other areas.

Another called on Congress to curb the U.S. Supreme Court in the area of court-enforced reapportionment of state legislatures. The Senate rejected moves to redistrict the Senate.

Another reduced from $50 to $35 the per diem payments to standing legislative committees. McKeithen promised further efforts to watch out for excessive tapping of expense accounts.

Ike Still Mum On Favorite GOP Choice

CHICAGO (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower, en route to next week's Republican convention in San Francisco said Friday he's "taking no stand at the moment" on a presidential candidate.

"I'll wait until the convention decides," he told newsmen who surrounded the rear platform on his special railroad car during a seven-hour layover.

After that, he said, he will serve as "a rallying point for the party" to help unify contending supporters of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton. The two-term presidential veteran had no comment on the current effort of Scranton to prevent a first-ballot nomination of the front-running Goldwater. He answered questions about his view of the platform now being forged at San Francisco.

Asked if the platform should speak out about the John Birch Society, as Scranton supporters have proposed, he said he would be for a statement on the "positive side" for programs of common sense.

Cavalry Used Against Reds

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— Venezuela sent the cavalry charging against Castroite guerrillas in the coastal mountains east of here Friday.

The horsemen were equipped with walkie-talkies for instant communication with supporting air and artillery units.

Government sources said three of an estimated 200 rebels were captured in the first assault.

Civil Rights Enforcement Is Up To U.S.

District Attorney Albin P. Lassiter Friday issued a statement in which he pointed out that the enforcement of the "civil rights bill" is not an obligation of the state and parish officers, but is "reserved exclusively to the federal officers and courts by laws of Congress."

Lassiter said the obligation of the local officers is to enforce "the laws of the state of Louisiana and its political subdivisions, this to protect the persons and property of its citizens." He said they would do this "within the framework of our existing and comparatively ancient laws."

The district attorney said local officers will continue "as in the past, to protect the good people, and to prosecute all law violators regardless of race, color or creed."

Lassiter's statement read:

"We have had many inquiries as to our position relative to enforcement of the new 'Civil Rights bill'. We have no obligation to enforce federal laws as such, this being reserved exclusively to the federal officers and courts by laws of Congress.

"Our obligation is to enforce the laws of the state of Louisiana and its political subdivisions, thus to protect the persons and property of its citizens. We shall do this, within the framework of our existing and comparatively ancient laws.

"We say 'ancient' in the sense that the laws under which we work are derived directly from the Ten Commandments. For example property rights were recognized by God in his command: 'Thou shalt not steal', and 'Thou shalt not covet.' The right of a person to be free from intentional or negligant injury is covered by 'Thou shalt not kill.'

"Our juvenile delinquency laws are based on several of the commandments, one of which is 'Honor thy father and mother.' A parent or any other person over 16 years of age who allows or helps a child to willfully disobey the law is guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile, and will be charged accordingly.

"All public buildings, institutions and services are maintained by taxpayers for specific purposes. When an individual or group of individuals enter such a building, institution or other place with any other intent, he is morally and legally wrong, and will be handled in accord with the facts and the laws of the state of Louisiana.

"We consider all of our local people as being law abiding citizens. We believe that they will obey the laws of the state of Louisiana and will not create useless and unnecessary disturbances.

"We shall continue, as in the past, to protect the good people, and to prosecute all law violators regardless of race, color or creed."

NLSC Begins Signup For Fall Campus Housing

Reservations should be made immediately by students planning to reside on campus at Northeast Louisiana State College for the coming fall term, Dr. Fred Vogel, dean of student activities, reminded Friday.

Reservations are being taken on a first come, first served basis, he noted. Through added housing accommodations are available, an increase in enrollment also is expected, the official said.

Campus housing is under the supervision of personnel counselors. Prospective women students should contact the women students counselor for dormitory reservations; men should contact the counselor to men students.

Among the new facilities this fall will be an additional residence hall for 384 men, located across Bayou DeSiard from the main campus. Ouachita Hall, opened last year, is being converted for women's residence.

Senate Boss Not Interested In V.P. Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Friday he would not accept the Democratic nomination for vice president even if it were offered to him.

Mansfield told a reporter that insofar as the vice presidency is concered, "Count me out."

The Senate majority leader's name has cropped up in some newspaper speculation over President Johnson's choice of a running mate. Mansfield sought Friday to put an end to such talk.

He was asked "You mean you would turn down the nomination if it were offered you?"

Mansfield replied promptly:

"Yes, I would. My interest is in being senator from Montana. I achieve my life's ambition when I came to Congress.

"I have gotten more out of life than I deserve and I am happy where I am.

"I am flattered, naturally, that my name has been mentioned, but I still want to be the senator from Montana if my people approve of the service I have rendered and wish to return me to the Senate."

Mansfield, a candidate for reelection, added "There are many men being mentioned (for the vice presidency) who are far better qualified than I am."

Lawyers To Continue With Ruby Appeal

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's defense attorneys indicated Friday they were moving ahead with plans to perfect the condemned man's appeal despite his continued erratic behavior in the Dallas County jail.

Clayton Fowler, chief defense counsel, said no conclusion had been reached on renewing requests for a sanity hearing for Ruby, following a meeting with attorneys Joe Tonahill, Phil Burleson and Ruby's sister, Eva Grant.

"We will confer further with psychiatrists," Fowler said in light of an incident Thursday in which Ruby attempted to attack one of his lawyers.

"We have not ruled out a request for a sanity hearing," Fowler said. The attorney has indicated, however, he still does not favor asking the courts for such a hearing while perfecting the appeal of Ruby's death penalty conviction for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Tonahill and Burleson reported the latest incident when they told how Ruby became angered during a jail interview with them Thursday and tried to strike Burleson.

"Phil (Burleson) and I were talking to Jack in the interview room and Jack got mad several times during the conversation," Tonahill said. "He got mad one time while we were discussing lie detector tests and another time when Phil tried to assure him Jews weren't being killed because of him."

The Jasper, Tex., attorney said Ruby insisted that Chief Justice Earl Warren had promised him a lie detector test when the jurist visited Oswald's slayer in his cell last month.

"He demanded we get a test for him," Tonahill said, "and to calm him down, we said we would try."

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—The heaviest hedge selling of the week came into the wheat futures pit Friday and drove all contracts into weakness on the Board of Trade. Other grains were mostly lower although the feed grains developed a little firmness in spots.

Setbacks ranged to more than a cent a bushel in wheat as the market slipped into accumulations of stop loss selling under the first flurry of pressure at the opening. Demand was scarce and limited thereafter.

Wheat was ¼ to 2 cents a bushel lower at the close, July new grade $1.42⅞-43; corn ⅝ lower to ¼ higher, July $1.20⅞; oats ⅜ - ¾ higher, July 60⅞ cents bid; rye ⅞ to 2 cents lower, July $1.23¾; soybeans ⅛-1¼ lower, July $2.49⅛-49.

Burglars Loot Safe In Gilbert Hardware Store

GILBERT (Special) — Burglars cut open a safe in a hardware store with an acetylene torch and made off with $100 in cash and four firearms here Thursday night or early Friday morning.

The theft was discovered after Willie Arnold reported an acetylene cutting torch was missing shortly after he opened his welding shop about 6 a. m. Friday.

Franklin Parish sheriff's deputy Jimmy Guice and Gilbert town marshal J. D. Jones investigated and found the torch in McCoy's Hardware Store about 50 yards behind the shop.

When the store owner was called to make a check of the entry, he discovered the cash missing from the safe and two 12-gauge shotguns and two .22 rifles taken from the store. A rifle and shotgun were found near the store, apparently abandoned.

Officers said a lock was broken on the shop door and a window of the store was smashed. The burglars apparently entered through the window and brought the bulky cutting equipment in through a door, they said. The torch requires a tank of acetylene and one of oxygen.

No suspects had been picked up late Friday and investigation was continuing.

Terzia Barracks To Meet Here Monday Night

Leo Terzia Barracks Number 3279 will hold a meeting Monday at 7 p.m. at the American Legion Home on Forsythe Avenue at which time members will discuss the state department convention report.

Other matters which will be taken into consideration will be veteran's legislation which Congress has been working on the possibility of calling a Fifth District conference meeting in August.

A state department board meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday, July 19 at the Old State Capitol Building in Baton Rouge to set up a budget for 1965.

All World War I veterans are urged to attend the meeting Monday night, and Louisiana Department Commander, Marion E. Dupont, asks all first-war veterans to join the organization, because his department is in first place in Division C in membership. Only 89 more members are needed for the group to make their quota for the year. The division which reaches its quota first for 1964 will receive a cash award given by national headquarters.

The Monday night report will be given by Dupont.

DOMINICANS DENY

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Dominican Republic denied Friday that an invasion force crossed into Haitian territory on June 29, as Haiti charged last week.

The Dominican Republic said it had invited the Organization of American States to send a committee to see for itself.

Haiti's accusation said the purpose of the invasion force was to kill the closest associates of President Francois Duvalier of Haiti.

How To Keep Well

By THEODORE VAN DILLION

JUVENILE TYPE DIABETES

Juvenile diabetes usually is severe because the victim is dependent entirely upon insulin. This form of the disease begins before the 20th birthday as a rule and approximately 5 per cent of all diabetics belong in this category. The adult type is different; insulin production is impaired but many get along on antidiabetic pills instead of having to rely upon insulin, as do victims of the juvenile type.

According to Dr. Edwin L. Rippy of Dallas, Texas, there are no known cases of this disorder in newborns. Juvenile diabetes can develop at any time thereafter, one reason it has been called growth onset diabetes.

The outcome was pitiful prior to the discovery of insulin. All died, generally within six months after the disease was detected. Hundreds of those who received the first supplies of insulin some 42 years ago are still alive and in good health.

Prior to the development of diabetes, these children are in good health and of normal weight. Suddenly, increased thirst with excessive urination occur. Appetite may remain the same or improve so that more food is consumed. This situation continues for two or three weeks when they begin to lose weight and become apathetic and irritable. These youngsters lose interest in other children and no longer play out of doors or care to go to school.

By this time it is obvious the child is ill and the parents consult the family physician who makes urine and blood tests. The results of treatment are miraculous, especially for the child who has been in a state of temporary starvation.

Diabetes is a lifelong disease and the mother is encouraged to learn all she can about the condition. The child is taught later and, by age 14, is given full responsibility for his diet, insulin requirements, and urine testing. The parents often need more conditioning than the victim. By avoiding overprotection, the boy or girl learns to accept the discipline of being a diabetic.

TONGUE SORES

Mrs. F. P. writes: What causes blisters on the tongue now and then? My mother used to tell me these sores came when I told a lie.

REPLY

These blisters are likely to be canker sores which usually stem from allergies or irritants. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for leaflet on canker sores.

RUBELLA DURING PREGNANCY

E. R. writes: If German measles develops during pregnancy, will the baby become immune to this disease?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The baby may come into the world with a heart defect, deafness, or a cataract of the eyes if the mother had German measles during the first three months of pregnancy.

HEAD THUMPING

T. S. writes: What bad effects will follow thumping a 3-year-old on the head with the thumb and middle finger? Isn't this considered cruel and inhuman treatment?

REPLY

Yes. The skull is hard enough to withstand ordinary thumping and if there are no black and blue marks, we can assume there is no damage. Why is it done?

CYSTITIS AFTER DELIVERY

E. S. writes: Why does infection of the bladder occur after childbirth?

REPLY

Because of injury or pressure in this area.

Annual Model Plane Contest Slated Here

Twin City and area model airplane enthusiasts will gather Sunday at Eastgate Shopping Center for the tenth annual model airplane contest. Activities are scheduled for 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sponsored by the Twin City Aero Modelers Club and Eastgate Shopping Center, the program will include the thrilling combat and pilot race, precision acrobatics and scale events.

Models will be exact replicas of actual airplanes, scaled down to model size with all details built in. Events are under direction of J. E. Sidders of Monroe, contest director. Models are expected to fly at speeds ranging from 50 to about 120 miles per hour, with about 40 contestants participating.

Also slated is a special jet plane flight at speed over 100 miles an hour about 3 p. m.

Annually the United States Navy sponsors a week-long national contest with as many as 1,500 fliers attending. This year's contest is to be held in Dallas, Tex., starting July 20; many who enter Sunday's competition here will also compete in the upcoming Navy-sponsored contest.

Enthusiasts also have a chance to compete in an international contest with expenses paid. The contest is usually entered by numerous Russian model plane enthusiasts since the Russian government provides special schooling and privileges to model airplane builders by providing them with the best equipment and training available.

According to Sam Walker of Monroe, president of the Aero Modelers Club, the local chapter is a member of the Academy of Model Astronauts, governing body for all model plane activities in the U.S.

Participants from Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana are expected to compete here Sunday for 18 trophies.

Contest sponsors invite the public to attend the contest.

LATE PRESIDENT

Harding Letters Reveal Illicit Love

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The author of a new biography of President Warren G. Harding has turned up 250 to 300 love letters written by the late chief executive to a Marion, Ohio, woman while both were married.

Historian Francis Russell said he read the cache of letters written by Harding to Mrs. James Phillips, wife of a Marion department store owner, last fall when they were made available to him by Donald Williamson, a Marion attorney.

Williamson, he said, had been Mrs. Phillips guardian prior to her death in 1960. Russell said he brought the letters, found in a shoebox in a locked closet of the Phillips home, to the Ohio historical society here for a brief time, but that they have been returned to Marion at the insistence of the administrator of Mrs. Phillip's estate.

The letters, now in the hands of the probate court in Marion, were dated between 1909 and 1920, the year Harding was elected President, Russell said. He said he made notes on the letters and will use some of the material in the biography he is writing and in an article for the December issue of American Heritage Magazine.

Russell said he understands the letters will eventually be sold to pay debts against Mrs. Phillips estate, possibly with the stipulation that they not be published for a certain period of years. This decision will have to be made by Mrs. Phillips daughter, Mrse. William H. Mathee of Genoa City, Wis., he said.

Russell said one letter indicated that Mrs. Phillips asked Harding for money to keep their romance quiet after he became the Republican nominee for President. He quoted a Harding letter as saying "I cannot secure you the large competence you have so frequently mentioned."

"To avoid disgrace I will, if you demand it, return to Marion to reside," Russell quoted Harding. "If you think I can be more helpful by having a public position and influence. . . I will pay you $5,000 per year, in March each year, so long as I am in that public service."

The letters are said to be the first documentation of the President's dalliance with Mrs. Phillips, whose husband operated the Uhler-Phillips department store in Marion. Harding was married to the former Florence Kling who reportedly destroyed much of his correspondence.

CORE Leader Freed On Bond

Ronnie Moore, Louisiana field director for CORE, was released from the Jackson Parish jail in Jonesboro late Thursday night on a $750 bond after being booked for hit and run and reckless driving.

The charge involved a two-car accident reportedly happened on U. S. Highway 167, near Jonesboro, late Wednesday.

Moore told police the accident occurred when several white men in a car pursued him and tried to force him off the road. The Jackson Parish sheriff's department would make no statement as to the vaildity of Moore's statement.

Moore reportedly left Jonesboro for New Orleans after posting bond.

Wally Shannon Leads Card Win From Mets, 3-1

NEW YORK (AP)—St. Louis starter Bob Gibson put down a ninth inning threat and Wally Shannon drove in two runs as the Cardinals stopped the New York Mets 3-1 Friday night.

Gibson, who held the Mets to four hits through eight innings, retired the first two batters in the ninth.

Joe Christopher singled and went to third on Ed Kranepool's double. Gibson walked Jesse Gonder intentionally, then got pinch hitter Jim Hickman on a game-ending grounder.

The Cardinals went ahead to stay in the fourth, scoring twice with none out. They loaded the bases on Dick Groat's single, a walk and Ron Hunt's error before Shannon rifled a two-run single to center field.

The Mets scored in the first on a walk, an infield out and Christopher's single.

Joey Giardello Will Defend Title Against Torres

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Joey Giardello has agreed to defend his title against Jose Torres, Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, at a site and date to be named later for a $75,000 guarantee, promoter Murray Goodman said Friday.

Goodman said the bout, Giardello's first defense since he dethroned Nigerian Dick Tiger at Atlantic City, Dec. 7, will be held in an Eastern city shortly after Labor Day, Sept. 7.

"Giardello has verbally agreed to the fight," said Goodman. "He will get a guarantee of $75,000 and Torres will receive $12,500."

Torres is ranked seventh among the contenders by Ring Magazine and eighth by the World Boxing Association. He is 28 and has a 30-1-2 record, including 21 knockouts.

America's Cup Challenger Will Arrive Thursday

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—Kurrewa V, one of two possible British challengers for the America's Cup yacht races, was loaded aboard the liner American Challenger Friday for shipment to New York.

Sovereign, Britain's other possible challenger, left for the United States two weeks ago. The America's Cup races are to be sailed off Rhode Island in September.

Lema Turns Back Rush By Nicklaus

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema, who borrowed Arnold Palmer's putter and hired his caddy, staved off a rousing challenge from Jack Nicklaus Friday and won the British Open Golf Championship by five strokes.

Lema, who said he "got down on my knees last night and asked the good Lord to give me this one," finished with a 72-hole total of 279, only one stroke off the St. Andrews record.

The two Americans wrecked the hallowed Old Course on a day when Nicklaus, the 24-year-old Ohio Golden Bear who started nine strokes behind, put it right up to Lema with fantastic scores, and Lema was equal to the task.

Nicklaus fired a couse record-equaling 66 in the morning and added a four-under-par 68 in the afternoon, for 284. Never before had the Old Course been treated like that, and at one point Lema had only a one stroke lead.

Lema, a slender 30-year-old pro from San Leandro, Calif., answered with a 68 and a cool 70.

Neither Lema nor Nicklaus had ever seen the St. Andrews course, the birthplace of golf, before Monday, and Lema had never played in Britain before.

This was the first major golf title for Lema, who won three U.S. tournaments last month with a putter borrowed from Arnold Palmer. Lema used the borrowed putter here, and also had Palmer's old caddy.

Lema was the 11th American to win the British Open, dating back to Jock Hutchinson in 1921.

The others were Walter Hagen, Jim Barnes, Bobby Jones, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazon, Denny Shute, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan and Palmer, who won in 1961 and 1962.

Palmer did not enter this year. Nicklaus has never won this title, the only big one he has missed.

Champagne Tony, after rounds of 73 and 68, started the final day at 141, three under par and two strokes ahead of Harry Weetman, long-hitting Englishman.

Nicklaus was nine strokes behind, after a 76 and a 74 Wednesday and Thursday—days when the winds were so strong they almost blew the players down.

The winds started again Friday, but soon began to die down. A bright sun shone and there was almost perfect golfing weather.

Nicklaus banged out his 66, and at one stage had closed to within one stroke of Lema, who was playing behind.

"I heard Jack was five under par," Lema said, "and there I was, three over fours."

Lema promptly parred the sixth hole, and then shot five straight threes—three of them birdies—on holes seven through 11.

In the afternoon, with Nicklaus again playing beautifully ahead of him, Lema shot the seventh, eighth and ninth 3-3-3.

That ended the struggle, although Nicklaus kept right on going. On the 18th, big Jack put his drive in the valley of sin, the huge depression in front of the 381-yard hole, putted it out to within six feet and ran in the putt for a birdie three.

Lema poked along behind, confident he had won. He parred hole after hole until the Road Hole, the 17th, when he lost a stroke to par. He still had a four-stroke lead, and needed only a seven on the last hole to win.

He drove short of the depression, and was surrounded by 10,000 golf fans. It took some time to quiet the crowd, and then Lema pulled out the trusty seven iron and ran the ball to within 18 inches of the cup.

He stroked the putt in for a birdie three and the title.

Robert De Vicenzo of Argentina put together a 67, including six threes, in the final round of 285—one back of Nicklaus.

Tigers, Red Sox Split Two Games In Doubleheader

DETROIT (AP)—Dick McAuliffe's third home run of the night, a three-run blast in the third inning, triggered Detroit to an 8-3 victory over Boston in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader Friday.

The Red Sox won the opener 7-6 on Dalton Jones' two-run pinch homer in the ninth inning.

An error by Boston first baseman Dick Stuart allowed Detroit's second run to score in the third inning of the nightcap and kept the uprising going until five runs were in.

George Thomas drove in the last three Tiger runs with a two-out double in the seventh.

The Red Sox scored their first run in the second inning on three singles, the last by Ed Bressoud. They scored again in the fourth on a single, infield out and Bob Tillman's single.

Ed Rakow, pitching his first complete game of the season, was the winner.

Jones' game-winning homer in the first game was the seventh homer of the free-swinging contest. All of the Boston runs came on homers.

McAuliffe had two for the Tigers, his second, a two-run blast, putting them ahead, 6-5, in the eighth inning. Gates Brown had a solo homer in the sixth for Detroit.

Dick Stuart hit a two-run homer in the first inning, while Lee Thomas connected for a two-run homer in the fourth for Boston.

Earl Wilson, the starting pitcher for the Red Sox, hit one over 400 feet into the lower centerfield bleachers in the seventh inning, then gave way to Dick Radatz, who made his 43rd relief appearance of the season in the bottom half of the inning.

Five Homers Power Giants By Cubs, 10-3

CHICAGO (AP)—Five homers, including Willie Mays' 26th and 27th, in a 19-hit attack swept Juan Marichal to his 12th verdict and the rampaging San Francisco Giants to a 10-3 trimming of the Chicago Cubs Friday.

The Giant assault featured torrid batting by Jesus Alou, who slammed a home run and five singles in six trips, and Orlando Cepeda, who homered, tripled, doubled and singled in four official trips.

Mays, who has hit four homers in three straight Giant victories over the Cubs, blasted a two-run shot in the first to start the carnage and belted a solo homer in the fourth.

Since dropping a 2-0 decision in the opener of a Wednesday twin bill running up their longest losing streak—four games—the Giants have pulverized the Cubs with 46 hits in three games.

Alou was the first National Leaguer to get six hits in as many times at bat since Dick Groat did it for the Pirates May 13, 1960.

Marichal, now 12-4, had the Cubs completely quelled until they tagged him for three runs on four hits in the seventh.

The Giant right-hander recorded 10 strikeouts, at one time whiffing six straight Cubs before Billy Williams' flied out to end the sixth. He walked none.

Killebrew connected over the centerfield fence in the sixth inning.

Tony Oliva smashed his 19th homer with one aboard in the three-run fourth. Don Mincher and Earl Battey hit consecutive homers off reliever Moe Drabowsky in the ninth.

The Twins pounded five Kansas City hurlers for 18 hits. Rich Rollins singled four times while Oliva and Battey each collected two singles besides their homers. Zoilo Versalles rapped two singles and a double.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant won his sixth game against five defeats and his third in four decisions since the Twins got him in a trade with Cleveland.

Rocky Colavito lashed a two-run homer for Kansas City in the ninth.

Italians Combine For Win From Davis Cup Pair

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Nicola Pietrangeli and Giordano Maioli combined Friday for a 6-3, 9-7 7-5 doubles triumph over the U.S. Davis Cup pair of Chuck McKinley and Frank Froehling.

The Italians now have a 2-1 edge over the visitors in a tennis tournament modeled along Davis Cup lines. In Thursday's singles, McKinley, who lives in San Antonio, Tex., defeated Maioli and Pietrangeli downed Froehling, who is from Coral Gables, Fla.

The opponents will be reversed for today's concluding singles.

Dodgers Edge Colts As Koufax Takes 13th Win

HOUSTON (AP)—Sandy Koufax needed relief help but won his ninth straight game and became the first pitcher in the majors to win 13 games this season as the Los Angeles Dodgers edged Houston 4-3 Friday night.

The largest Houston crowd of the season—27,990—turned out, lured by an expected pitching duel between Koufax, who had not lost since May 27, and Houston's Dick Farrell, a 10-game winner who hadn't won in five tries since June 15.

Koufax, who has lost four games, was lifted in the sixth when the Colts rallied. Bob Miller and Ron Perranoski finished up. Farrell, who lost his fourth game, went all the way, giving up five hits.

Miller came on in the sixth after the Colts had edged to within 3-2. Two men were on and a run was in. Eddie Kasko tried to squeeze Joe Gaines home from third, but Miller picked up the bunt and fired to the plate for the out. John Bateman then flied out to end the threat.

Miller also scored what turned out to be the winning run in the eighth inning. He opened with a walk, moved up on an infield out and a long fly and scored on Willie Davis' second run-producing single.

Miller needed Perranoski's aid in the eighth when the Colts scored their final run. Bob Aspromonte collected three singles and two runs batted in for Houston.

COULDN'T EAT

Lema Is Elated Over Open Win

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Tony Lema took one bite of a cold-salmon sandwich at noon Friday.

That was his lunch.

His breakfast was a cup of coffee.

"Who's nervous?" the 1964 British Open champion said with a laugh after he had won one of the biggest prestige prizes in golf at the home of the tame.

"I just couldn't eat Thursday night. I got on my knees and asked the good Lord to give me this one. It's one of the four great golf championships in the world. He did not let me down."

On such a diet, what happened to Lema's weight?

"I don't really know," he said. "I stand 6-foot-1 and weigh 180 pounds. But, oh brother, I believe I lost a little out there today."

Then, as is his custom — one that started by accident—Lema ordered champagne for the press.

Lema, who has been in Britain only five days, had to fight his way through 10,000 deliriously happy Scots to get to the final green.

"I got some bruises getting through there," Lema said. "But I'm happy about those bruises."

The 30-year-old Californian has made thousands of friends since he came over to play in this 103-year-old tournament, and he added to the list as he stood off a great challenge by Jack Nicklaus Friday.

"I want to thank the gallery for giving me the gas I needed out there today," he said. "You helped me win it, when Jack started to pour it on."

He added: "I felt that I owed it to myself as a golf professional and one who loves the game to visit where my great friend —the game of golf — was born. I have read Walter Hagen's name and Gene Sarazen's name and other great names on this cup.

"Now mine will be added. I feel inadequate."

Lema had said before he left the States that he merely wanted to see St. Andrews, play it, "and get an idea of what kind of preparation I will need for a serious effort at the British Open at some later date."

But he won. "I certainly will be back next year to defend my title," he said.

He added: "I never thought I would find myself speechless. But I'm as close to that as I've ever been."

Lema began ordering champagne for the press tent a couple of years ago, when he dropped in and saw a writer friend toying with a warm beer. The writer said he wished it were champagne.

"If I win tomorrow, I'll order champagne," Lema said. He forgot, but the writer didn't, and champagne has been the order of the day after every Lema victory since.

He has been popping corks at a furious rate of late, having won the Thunderbird, Buick and Cleveland Opens in June before coming here last Monday.

Cincinnati Trims Phil's Lead With 5-1 Trouncing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer and Deron Johnson drove in two runs with a homer and double, powering Cincinnati to a 5-1 victory over the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

The loss snapped the Phillies' five-game winning streak and trimmed their lead to one-half game over the San Francisco Giants, who defeated Chicago 10-3.

Johnson doubled home the first Cincinnati run in the second, scoring Robinson, who had walked. But the Phillies tied it in their half when Richie Allen walked and came around on singles by Roy Sievers and Ruben Amaro.

The Reds broke out ahead in the third in singles by Pete Rose and Tom Harper plus Vada Pinson's double play grounder before Johnson and Robinson supplied the clinchers.

Johnson homered into the upper left field stands in the fourth, chasing Dennis Bennett and tagging him with sixth loss in 15 decisions. Robinson slugged his 15th homer in the fifth after Pinson tripled.

Reds' starter Jim O'Toole was in trouble in almost every inning, but lasted the distance and brought his record to 9-4.

Individuality At Houston

Richard Joseph Farrell, because he has an abundance of what in better and bygone days was known as color, is the kind of player the supposedly grand old game of baseball could use in abundance.

As Houston General Manager Paul Richards commented, "Had Farrell played for John McGraw at Coogan's Bluff long ago, his exploits would have been dramatized instead of castigated."

Today however, Farrell, who is above all a pillar of inconsistency, is known simply as a kook — another one of those baseball nuts.

He has, on various occasions, punched a mirror, broken a pinky on a teammate's head and taken pistol-shooting practice in the outfield. On the other hand, he accepted his 20th loss in 1962 with both pride and tranquility. He also drank champagne in the clubhouse afterward.

"Look," Farrell says, "it takes a helluva pitcher to lose twenty games. A lot of people don't realize that."

The statement has more than a slight ring of truth.

A really bad pitcher can never lose 20 games. No manager keeps on using a really bad pitcher that often.

Farrell has proven his point this year. He has a 10-3 record with the ninth place Houston team, a performance that has to make him one of the best pitchers in the league.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, a team for which Farrell has a keen distaste, dumped the six-foot-four inch bundle of trouble into Houston's lap in '62 as part of a pool of player talent which set up both the Colts and New York Mets.

Farrell started quickly, throwing a spitball to Stan Musial early in the season "just for the fun of it-to see if he could hit it." Sure enough, Musial could. He singled.

"I can't even get him out with an illegal pitch," Farrell complained in mock outrage.

Ball players are not encouraged to break rules publicly. So when "The Sporting News" headlined the incident "Farrell Drops Bomb In Spitter Confession" Warren Giles, president of the National League, sent Farrell a critical telegram. "What Giles explained," Farrell says, "was that it is all right to throw the spitter once in a while. Just don't brag about it."

The story has a sequel.

A little later Houston played the Milwaukee Braves, a team which at that time included Lou Burdette, a right-hander frequently accused of throwing spitballs.

During the game Burdette pitched, a Houston hitter asked umpire Al Barlick to check the ball. It was scuffed and Barlick threw another to Burdette.

Burdette threw the ball back to Barlick in anger. Barlick then gave Burdette another baseball and another and another, four in all. Burdette wouldn't pitch any of them.

Each was marked with a message such as:

"Spit here, Lou."

"Here's a dry spot, Lou."

Barlick stormed into the Houston dugout and showed the balls to Harry Craft, the Colts' field manager. "Which one of you guys did this?" he demanded. There was no answer. Farrell was hiding.

Farrell, who once was called a switch drinker because he "could raise a glass with either hand," continued his hatred for the Dodgers. And eventually, he cost them the pennant.

Late in the season someone quoted Dodger Manager Walter Alston as saying, "Stay close to Farrell for six innings. Then the booze will get him."

It was a furious Farrell who went into a game crucial to the Dodgers and beat them 3-2.

Later he pitched against the Giants in the last game of the season and lost 2-1 on a homer to Willie Mays.

The homer which helped the Giants to the pennant, made Farrell a 20-game loser. For a few minutes afterward he angrily kicked batting helmets around the clubhouse. Then he got to thinking. If he had beaten the Giants, the Dodgers would have won the pennant. And if the Dodgers, who had dropped him, had reached the series, he'd been out around $10,000 (the series share). "I don't feel so bad," he mused. "Losing my twentieth saved me a lot of money."

No Ultimate

Buddy Diliberto of the Times Picayune, interviewing John Pennel in New York last weekend, discovered an old Pennel philosophy.

"John Pennel," he wrote, "suntanned jumping jack on fiberglass, said Saturday, 'There's no ultimate in the pole vault.' "

It was nothing new. People here in Monroe had heard it once before. Only then the goal out there in the misty future was 17 feet. Now, little more than a year later, it is 18 feet.

"And world record holder Fred Hansen of Rice agrees, "Diliberto continued. "Both are confident of cracking 18 feet.

" 'We will both top 18 eventually,' they echoed in the locker room under Downing Stadium on Randall Island."

It makes one wonder. When they do eventually clear 18 feet, what will be next?

Remember when Pennel set his first world at 16-3 in April 1963?

Earlier, Saturday Pennel assured himself a berth on the U. S. Olympic team by taking first place in the track and field trials there with a 16-6 jump. It was a good vault for an event in which performance can fluctuate wildly, but no longer earth-shattering.

Values change, don't they?

After taking first, Pennel, the former Northeast State track star, narrowly missed a try at 17-2½ which would have erased Hansen's world record by a half inch.

"On my last try," said Pennel, "I had good spring. I thought sure I was going to make it, but I reached for the bar with my legs before my body had reached full height."

Earlier a wire service story had quoted Pennel as saying he wasn't concerned with what Hansen or anybody did before the Olympic trials; that when the trials were held he was going to make the Olympics.

Pennel may not have said this. He has had a lot of trouble with people misquoting him. But whether he said it or not, it happened.

FORD WINS 11TH

Yanks Cut Orioles Lead With Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reliever Bill Stafford pitched hitless ball over the final 3 1-3 innings, preserving Whitey Ford's 11th victory as the New York Yankees defeated Washington 4-1 Friday night.

The Yankees' victory, coupled with Baltimore's 8-0 loss at Cleveland, moved New York to within 2½ games of the American League leading Orioles.

Ford, making his fifth try at winning No. 11, pitched four scoreless innings, giving up three singles. But Don Leppert blasted a home run in the fifth and Ed Brinkman followed with a single. After Don Lock singled and Jim King walked in the sixth, Stafford relieved Ford and got Leppert on a fielder's choice.

Clete Boyer, who drove in three runs for the Yankees Thursday night, hit his fifth homer off Buster Narum in the second inning with Elston Howard on base.

Narum, who had his customary early inning trouble, gave up a run in the first on a Bobby Richardson single, a walk to Mickey Mantle, a wild pitch and Roger Maris' infield out.

The Yankees drove Narum out in the fourth on a walk and singles by Tony Kubek and Richardson that provided another run.

Pirates Defeat Milwaukee, 5-1, Behind Friend

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh right-hander Bob Friend allowed only six hits, all singles, and batted in a run Friday night as the Pirates whipped the Milwaukee Braves 5-1.

It was Friend's seventh victory against eight losses.

The Pirates touched starter and loser Tony Cloninger, 7-8, for three runs in the third inning on singles by Bill Mazeroski, Jim Pagliaroni and Friend and Bob Bailey's double.

They got another in the third when Donn Clendenon walked, took third on Mazeroski's single and came home on a single by Gene Alley.

Clendenon singled in the fifth Pirate run in the seventh off Bob Sadowski, the fourth Milwaukee pitcher.

Hank Aaron singled in the Braves only run in the sixth.

Grid Cardinals Are Reported Atlanta Bound

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League are expected to announce next week that they will move to Atlanta, Sports Editor Bob Broeg of the Post-Dispatch reported Friday.

The only things that could block the announcement, he said, are opposition to the move by league colleagues or legal action in St. Louis.

Broeg's report came in a lengthy analysis of why Charles and Bill Bidwill, the brothers who own the Cardinals, apparently favor Atlanta. One of the reasons mentioned was dissatisfaction with a proposed lease and facilities at the new downtown sports stadium, now under construction.

CHANCE RIFLES TWO HOMERS

Loop-Leading Orioles Blasted By Tribe, 8-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie Bob Chance rifled two homers, knocking in five runs, and left-hander Jack Kralick fired a six-hitter Friday night, giving the Cleveland Indians an 8-0 victory over the American League leading Baltimore Orioles.

The Baltimore loss, coupled with New York's 4-1 victory at Washington, trimmed the Orioles' lead over the second-place Yankees to 2½ games.

The victory, Kralick's ninth against four losses, broke a five-game Cleveland losing streak.

Chance put the Indians in front in the first, whacking a Steve Barber pitch over the fence in left center. It brought in Dick Howser, who had singled.

In the third Chance poked a three-run jab to the same place off Barber. Scoring in front of Chance were Howser, who had beat out a bunt, and Al Smith, who had gotten a checked-swing single.

It was Homer No. 11 for Chance, who is the only Indian regular batting over .300.

The Indians picked up a run in the fifth off Herm Starrette when Luis Aparicio threw Smith's grounder wild to first and Leon Wagner singled and wrapped up the scoring with more in the eighth.

Kralick's shutout was the first for a Cleveland pitcher since June 17.

Ken Venturi Keeps Lead In Wykagyll Go

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) —National Open champion Ken Venturi fired a third round 68 and shot nine points in front Friday in the Wykagyll Round Robin golf tournament which wound up in a wild controversy.

There were violent complaints from a big portion of the 16-man field when one of the foursomes agreed to concede all putts on a hole when the pin was placed in a difficult position.

Venturi was one of the most outspoken of these objectors, but tournament directors decided to take no punitive action.

In the bizarre plus and minus tournament in which players compete head-to-head in match play foursomes, Venturi boosted his point total to plus 28, nine better than Fred Hawkins, second with plus 19, and 11 better than the next two, Tommy Bolt and Miller Barber, plus 17.

Medal scores don't count. Points are awarded for each hole won and lost against other players in the foursome.

In the 90-hole event, with the fourth round scheduled Saturday and the final round Sunday, every player must come face to face with each other man in that field.

Bolt unleashed the day's hottest round — a seven-under-par 65 over the par 72 Wykagyll Country Club course, picked up a whopping 18 points for one round and figured prominently in the day's lively rhubarb.

When Bolt and his partners, Jimmy Demaret, George Bayer and Tommy Jacobs, came to the fourth hole where the pin was placed on the side of an incline, they shrugged their shoulders and agreed:

"This is ridiculous. Let's concede our putts and go to the next hole."

This they did. This would have made no difference in their particular standings. It could have—and did—affect the other groupings.

Gene Littler, for instance, who is in the thick of contention, four-putted the hole from 15 feet and lost three valuable points. Hawkins, leader through the first two rounds, took a four there—a 147 yard, par three jole—and also lost three points.

The pin was placed on a side of a roll in the green. When players putted up to it, the ball might stop one inch from the cup and then roll 15 feet back.

Chicago Outlasts Angels In First Of Doubleheader

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Juan Pizarro, with relief help from Hoyt Wilhelm, became the American League's second 12-game winner Friday night as the Chicago White Sox outlasted the Los Angeles Angels 7-4 in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

The White Sox, who had gone scoreless for 18 innings before picking up two runs in the fifth, worked over five Angel pitchers for 13 hits, including three each by Floyd Robinson and Gerry McNertney.

Pizarro, beaten four times this season, had a 6-1 lead and was working on a four-hitter after seven innings. But the Angels got to him for three runs in the eighth, scoring the last two on a double by Bob Rodgers after Pizarro had been relieved by Wilhelm.

Davis Food Wins Amateur Game From Rivers, 8-1

Davis Food carried a 3-0 lead into the seventh frame and exploded for five more runs to take an 8-1 Amateur League victory over Rivers Ford Friday.

The win gave Davis undisputed possession of second place in the loop behind Falstaff's 12-1 mark. Davis is now 7-4 while Rivers slipped into fourth spot at 6-5 behind Piggly Wiggly's 7-5 tab.

Davis scored one in the first frame on a single, a sacrifice and a throwing error. Three errors and a single in the fifth inning let in two more tallies.

Four singles, a double and a walk gave the winners five counts in the top of the seventh.

Rivers got its lone run when Neal Gunn rapped an inside the park homer in the bottom of the seventh.

The All Stars will meet National Guard in a 7:30 Legion Field contest today.

REBEL COMES BACK

Tshombe Government Eyed Hopefully By U.S.

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States strongly opposed Moise Tshombe's efforts to pull his Katanga Province out of the Congo. But it didn't burn all its diplomatic bridges to the man who now has emerged as premier of the troubled African nation.

There has been no official pronouncement yet on the latest Congolese upheaval which brought Tshombe out of exile and put him at the head of a united government, something he once sought to destroy.

But all indications are that the United States is taking a carefully hopeful, though watchful, position. And, privately, policymakers cite the record which they feel shows that Washington never attacked Tshombe personally and always recognized him as an able politician.

Now that he heads the government of the whole Congo, officials carefully point out that the U.S. position towards Tshombe the man has not changed at all.

On Jan. 4, 1963 when forces of the United Nations occupied the key areas of Katanga to end Tshombe's secession, the State Department issued a statement which said: "There is no desire to deny Mr. Tshombe a place in the future political life of the Congo, but this will depend on the Congolese people and on Mr. Tshombe himself."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, asked about Tshombe at his latest news conference July 1, used exactly the same words, without changing as much as a comma.

Officials at the State Department refuse to go beyond what Rusk said. Privately these cautious points are made:

—The view that Tshombe is a first-rate politician was reaffirmed by his initial success in bringing together a Cabinet which appears to contain elements from the far left to the far right.

—It remains to be seen whether, and to what extent, the new premier has changed during his exile in Europe, meaning in other words whether he gave up his Katanga dreams.

It is known here that while in Europe, Tshombe was under the influence of Belgian leaders, especially Paul-Henri Spaak, the foreign minister. Belgium now again plays an important role in the Congo and Spaak has worked quietly to bring stability in Belgium's former African empire.

—There is considerable doubt here that the strange melange Tshombe concocted in the form of a Cabinet will turn out to be an effective government, though the African specialists of the administration are reluctant to talk about their worries. "It is too early," is the stock comment.

The World for WOMEN

PRETTY AND USEFUL. The pyroceram cook-and-serve utensils, later to be given to the bride-to-be, are featured on a buffet table as containers for masses of flowers, an unusual and practical touch for a bridal shower.

Shower Gifts Can Be Used As Part Of Decorations

Every hostess, at some time or another, is faced with the problem of giving a shower for a young bride-to-be. Every hostess, too, want to make the shower she gives as attractive and as unusual as possible.

The Society of American Florists suggests making the actual shower gifts themselves a part of the decorations for the party. For a kitchen shower, for example, the mixing bowls or measuring cups to be given the lucky bride might be used as amusing containers for flower arrangements on a buffet table.

For a bathroom shower, hand towels might be used as place mats. A small fresh flower corsage could be pinned to the corner of each "place mat" as a decoration, and as an attractive favor for each guest to take home.

The new pyroceram kitchen utensils are an excellent choice of shower gifts. They are sturdy enough to be used on top of the kitchen stove or in the oven, yet are beautiful enough to be brought to the table along with even the finest china. Young brides love to start housekeeping with them. And, for the shower hostess, they make ideal flower containers.

The Society of American Florists says a recent shower buffet table was made particularly pleasing by using three of these attractive pyroceram sauce pans as vases. Filled with a glorious medley of flowers, all arranged in carefully careless fashion, the flowers brought outdoor sunshine into the room where the young guests were enjoying themselves.

If the shower is a China one, little nosegays might be arranged in demi-tasses — again bearing out the Society's suggestion to use the gifts as containers.

The Society has long advocated the use of unusual containers to set off the true beauty of fresh flowers. Baskets, large sea shells, a particularly lovely old sugar bowl are all among the vases suggested by the Society. The unusual vase makes an arrangement of fresh blooms even more of a conversation piece.

Whatever the theme of your particular shower, you'll find that fresh flowers will make the occasion more festive, more beautiful, and more memorable for the bride. It will be an event she will remember with happiness all of her life.

Luncheon Compliments Recent Bride

Mrs. Cecil Morgan Hill, the former Susan Snipes of Bastrop, was named honoree at a luncheon given yesterday at the home of Mrs. Paul Ransom on Bayou Bend Road. Serving as co-hostesses for the postnuptial courtesy were Mrs. Joe Dixon and Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr.

A yellow and white color scheme was used throughout the home. Centering the dining table were yellow and white summer flowers in a polished brass container, while magnolia leaves were used on the mantel of the fireplace in the living room.

White bridal place cards marked the places for the honoree, her mother, Mrs. J. L. Jordon; Mrs. Cecil Hill, mother of the groom; Miss Brenda Davidson, Miss Bruce Blanks, and Miss Jeanette Templeton of Bastrop; Miss Nancy Brown of Oak Ridge, Mrs. V. H. Reitzell, aunt of the groom, Mrs. T. B. Godfrey Jr. and the hostesses.

Dinner Party Fetes Couple Before Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Calvert Sr. of Rayville entertained with a dinner party at Bayou DeSiard Country Club last evening, complimentary to their son, Robert W. Calvert Jr. and his fiancee, Miss Hazel Edna Hoben. The dinner followed the rehearsal of the couple's wedding which will be solemnized this evening at Rayville Methodist Church.

Carrying out a green and white theme, arrangements of white chrysanthemums and aganpanthus, ivy and green votive lights decorated the dinner tables, which were covered with white cloths and set with green goblets.

For the occasion, Miss Hoben wore a white silk ottoman dress. She was presented with a nosegay of white flowers. She and her fiance chose this time to present gifts to their attendants and to each other.

Seated at the head table with Miss Hoben and Mr. Calvert were members of the wedding party, who are Misses Marilyn Greer of Franklinton, Betty Calvert of Rayville, Eleanor Harmon of Monroe and Jeannie Loftin of Camden, Arkansas; Danny McCarty, Ray Cox, Mark Brown and Tommy Cooper, all of Rayville; Bill Deloney of Wisner and Warren Greer of New Orleans.

Actress Turned Bridge Pro Relies On Memory

NANCY EATON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobias Stone won a bet and, with his wife, joined the ranks of married couples who fight over the bridge table.

When Stone, one of the world's top bridge players, married actress Janice Gilbert he bet friends he could make her an expert player within a year. He did, but not without cost to domestic tranquility.

"Stony (Mr. Stone) is such a perfectionist," says Mrs. Stone, "that he'll get mad at me for playing a deuce instead of a three." But the fights don't last long. "After all, we're still married."

No one thought they would be. "All our friends had a sweepstakes on how long it would last when we were first married," she laughs. "I was a volatile actress and he was a perfectionist bridge player."

She had never played bridge when she married Stone. Four months later she played and won her first tournament, and within the year was named a Life Master of the American Contract Bridge League, the highest rating for American players.

KEPT UP ACTING

The pretty blonde explains her unheard - of accomplishment: "You have to have card sense. Stoney was a wonderful teacher, and acting helped. I had done between 10 and 12 radio and telvision shows a day since I was 8. Memory is important in bridge and I was used to memorizing all those scripts."

At first, Mrs. Stone kept up her acting. In her spare time, she read about, studied and played bridge with her husband as teacher and partner. Then came the first tournament followed by a winning streak during which she accumulated 613 master points. It takes 300 to be named a Life Master.

"The first year, 1956," she says, "I began to think that I couldn't lose. The feeling gave me confidence." That was the year that Stone was named the world's best player, and she was ranked second best.

REGULAR WINNER

Since then, she's been a regular winner at bridge tournaments all over the country. This year she and her partner, Muriel Kaplan, were chosen to play on the United States Women's team in the World Bridge Olympiad.

Before Olympiad begins, the United States team spends weeks in practice play and study. Then, during the match itself, the players will eat together and stay at the same hotel.

"But I hope they'll let me stay at home," Mrs. Stone remarks. "I'm trying to decorate our New York apartment."

A woman of boundless energy and enthusiasms, she commutes between New York and Florida, where her 6-year-old daughter Leslie is in school.

Mrs. Stone hasn't time for much acting anymore — certainly not for 10 or 12 shows a day. But she still does taped performances she can schedule around her other activities. And now she's branching out. She and her husband plan to produce a suspense movie based on the novel "The Horizontal Man" by Helen Eustis.

PLANS MOVIE

She will devote most of her time to the movie after the Olympiad. She doesn't mind that it will interfere with bridge. "It's much more fun to try new things than just to stick to what you know well."

And she'll always play bridge — she enjoys beating her husband too much not to. She explains that bridge is tremendously competitive, and it takes a fighter to be a really good player. "While the match is going on," she says, "you're out to get your opponent — even if he is your husband."

She pauses reflectively. "You know, bridge is a fantastic game. There's so much to consider, including the psychology of your opponents. It's the one thing that presents enough problems of its own to overcome all your other problems. It gets you out of yourself."

CARDAMOM SEEDS

Cardamom seeds may be crushed with a rolling pin or pounded in a mortar with a pestle. Cardamom is used frequently in Scandinavian recipes for cookies.

JANICE GILBERT STONE studies a hand in her New York apartment. Behind her are some of the trophies she and her husband, Tobias Stone have won in tournaments.

Miss Moore Honoree For Luncheon

An exotic color scheme of pink and orange was carried out by Mrs. R. C. McDowell and Mrs. Bert C. Root when they entertained at a luncheon Wednesday, July 8 in courtesy to bride-elect, Miss Margaret Moore.

Miss Moore and her fiance, John Gilbert Lauve of Alexandria, will exchange wedding vows on August 13 in St. Matthew's Catholic Church of this city.

The prenuptial party was held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club where the luncheon table, seating 12, was covered with a pink linen cloth. An epergne filled with pink and orange chrysanthemums provided the central decor with a runner of fern extending the length of the table interspersed with pink and orange chrysanthemums. Place cards were tiny pink daisies with orange centers, bearing names of the guests. All appointments including the luncheon menu carried out the pink and orange theme.

For the occasion the bride-elect wore a two-piece white linen dress, bound in pink with white accessories. Seated at the table with Miss Moore and her hostesses were Mrs. Roy Cole, Miss Mary Conlin, Miss Kay Thompson, Miss Bunny Buckner, Miss Doll Burgoyne, Miss Helen Touchstone, Miss Rose Mary Upshaw, Mrs. Bishop Johnson Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Roberts.

Swimsuits Take To Cover-Ups

Note to girl - watchers: what you'll see by the sea this summer is intriguing contradiction in fashion.

Two - piece cotton swimsuits have turned more daring and baring than ever before. But, more often than not, they take to the beach under demure cover-ups.

The cover story ranges far and wide, according to the National Cotton Council. Styles include dainty and frilly shirts, tailored blazer jackets, shifts, blousons, and beach sweaters.

Most coverups, are designed to match or coordinate with the swimsuit underneath . . . and all are attractive enough to provide "The first year, 1956," she pretty coverage for skirts and long pants as well as swimwear.

While gingham, chambray, pique, and printed terry are popular choices for beachwear, the biggest fashion splash is being made by dressier fabrics.

This summer, designers favor airy, delicate cottons like organdy, lace, eyelet, and dotted Swiss. In fact, you're likely to see as many of these fabrics on the beach as on the dance floor.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women who are very youthful looking in all other ways appear older because of frown lines. There may be one deep one between the eyes or two smaller ones.

This does not necessarily mean that the lady in question has a glum or pessimistic disposition. Such habits often slip up on us. Even the gayest person may frown during times of stress. If these are prolonged the frown may become habitual. Sometimes eyestrain leads to the frowning habit.

Whatever the reason, the most important corrective measure is to check on yourself many times during each day to see whether or not you are frowning. All your efforts to eradicate the frown line will be useless if you continue to deepen it each day.

Also do the following. Every night apply a lubricating cream to the line or lines. This is one type of wrinkle which should be massaged. You can iron out the line to a great extent if you massage along the line. This same routine should be used on crow's feet at the corners of the eyes when these are present. After you remove the cream smooth the line out and paste a piece of tape over it. This will keep it smooth while you sleep.

Frowning is sometimes an indication of tenseness. Another symptom is the habit of pushing the tongue against the roof of the mouth. We too often form the habit of going at life in a tense hectic way. Check yourself in these two matters.

If your tongue is relaxed and your brow smooth you will find that tension drops away. It always helps to stop, check, and relax. Once you learn to do this you will find life much more delightful.

DEAR ABBY

If He Really Loved Her, He'd Forfeit Zoo

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother became ill, so I called the doctor. He examined her and said coldly, "She's sick." (I knew that or I wouldn't have called him.) He prescribed some medicine and told me to keep her in bed. After two weeks in bed she just grew weaker and she wasn't eating enough to keep a bird alive. I called the doctor again and told him my mother seemed to be slipping. He said, "There is nothing I can do. What do you expect from a 73-year-old woman?" Two days later she was just lying there like a wax statue and I honestly didn't know if she had gone into a coma or if the life had gone out of her, so I called the doctor and asked him to come right over. He calmly said, "If she is gone, you don't need ME. Call the undertaker of your choice and have him contact me to sign the death certificate." After all, Abby, I am NOT a registered nurse so how am I supposed to know if my mother is dead or in a coma? She died the next morning. I thought doctors were supposed to be dedicated? If I want to report this to the American Medical Association, how do I go about it? We live in a very small town.

DISAPPOINTED IN DRS.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Write to the State Board of Medical Examiners, care of your State capital. They will investigate the case and the doctor will have to answer for his unprofessional and inhumane conduct.

DEAR ABBY: Will you join a campaign to legalize polygamy? Particularly for men who have career wives? I speak from experience. In spite of her beautiful home, a car of her own, no money worries and three wonderful children, my wife decided that being a home-maker was not "creative" enough for her, so she took a job. And now when this "creative" being comes home she is tired, irritable, and has no creative energy for her home, children or husband. What do you say?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: A mother with school - age children who seeks a career outside her home for any reason other than because she just plain NEEDS THE MONEY, deserves a good boot in the bustle. And a husband who would let her get away with it deserves two.

DEAR ABBY: My father was a taxidermist and as a boy I learned the trade from him. I use it only as a hobby, however, as I am in the insurance business. The young woman I am presently going with is a devout lover of animals and she can't stand to be around stuffed animals or birds. My apartment is filled with beautiful stuffed owls, pheasants and the heads of deer and elk. She says it gives her the creeps. I like this girl a lot, Abby, and don't want to give her up. But I find taxidermy a most relaxing hobby. Any suggestions?

AVOCATION: TAXIDERMY

DEAR AV: Yes, forget the girl. If she really cared for you she'd abide the glass-eyed creatures. And if you really cared for her, you wouldn't be asking me for suggestions. You'd store your zoo in the attic and marry the girl.

DEAR ABBY: What would you think if, after you received an invitation to the wedding of your friend's 18-year-old daughter, her mother called and said, "If you are going to send our daughter a wedding gift, please don't give her anything with a monogram or an initial because you know how young folks are nowadays — you never know how long the marriage will last."

ABSOLUTELY SPEECHLESS

DEAR ABSOLUTELY: I would think the same thoughts you undoubtedly thought. And I would heed the advice. P. S. Let's hope the daughter has better sense than her mother.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, in care of News Star. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Prenuptial Courtesies Honor Charlotte Salley

Miss Charlotte Salley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Salley, and bride-elect of Bill Turpin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Turpin, was honored with a conversational hour last Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Rhes McCook on Pargoud Drive. Earlier in the week Miss Salley and her fiance were complimented with a cookout at the E. N. Hemphill home on Emerson.

Mrs. McCook entertained on the patio of her home, where she followed a rustic theme. Iron pots of coleus surrounded the patio area, and a large iron pot at one side held iced drinks for the guests. Other refreshments were served from a large round table centered with an arrangement of calendulas and greenery in a miniature iron pot. Completing the decorative scheme were red bandana napkins.

For the informal occasion, Miss Salley wore a Jamacia outfit with a middy blouse accented by a red sash belt.

Sharing the morning courtesy with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Fred Salley, Mrs. Allen Turpin, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Larry Kulcke, Miss Roslyn Walker, Miss Glenda Jordan and Miss Carolyn Wills.

COOKOUT

Mrs. P. R. Pierce joined Mr. and Mrs. Hemphill as hosts for Monday evening's cookout on the Hemphill patio. A variety of green plants decorated the party area, where a lazy-susan held colorful trimmings for the grilled hamburger supper.

The honoree wore Bermuda shorts in a Calypso print of blue, green and lavender.

Invited guests included the engaged couple, whose marriage will be solemnized on August 1 at Parkview Baptist Church, their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salley and Mr. and Mrs. Turpin, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Brakefield, Miss Sally Pierce, Buster Thrasher, Miss Nelia LaValle, Fred Salley Jr. Ann Hemphill and Buddy O'Connor.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Colorful Hangers Spruce Up Closets

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Folks:

Ever clean out your closet and end up with a big batch of those black wire coat hangers? The kind that just hang there . . .

Well, some darling named Bobbie wrote and told me that she painted all her wire hangers different colors and hung each person's clothes on different colored hangers as she did her ironing! It gave her a lift, besides her ironed clothes were easier to sort.

She hangs her son's clothes on blue hangers, her daughter's on silver (and, gals, be careful when using silver paint . . . sometimes it backfires with synthetic clothes; and hangs her own clothes on the black hangers, etc.

This is a great idea and we experimented with it.

Here's the best way we found to paint hangers:

Spend your TIME, PAINT AND ENERGY on the HEAVIEST of the hangers. Some hangers are made of thinner wire and are cheap. And DON'T use rusted hangers.

Remove all the tissue paper and cardboard from each hanger. Put them all in a big, cardboard box, leaving them slightly apart. Then take your can of spray paint and spray away . . . We did about 18 at one time. And I used ENAMEL, not flat paint.

When using this method the paint doesn't get all over everything. Most of it will whizz like a tornado inside the box and land BACK on your hangers. Paint saved.

Wonderful.

Don't try to spray all your hangers completely in one minute.

Shoot a few sprays, leave them a while, come back and turn the hangers over and give that can a few more spurts. Leave them alone AGAIN and ten minutes later come back, pick up the can and spurt a few more times . . . eventually they will be beautiful.

AFTER you have finished painting from any type of fizz can, don't allow the remainder of the paint to go dead and let the fizz hole plug up! All you have to do is turn the can upside down, (be sure to hold it against a piece of paper as it will spray more paint) and press on the fizz button a few seconds. Spray until NO MORE PAINT COMES OUT. Then put the can away.

Next time you get ready to paint, the fizz should (?) work! Mine always has since I found this out.

Now, go get those coat hangers sprayed. And in the meantime, if you have anything else that needs painting, do it at the same time.

Love you,
Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I never miss your column. But I don't believe I have ever seen where anyone ironed plastic. I do.

Sometimes our favorite tablecloth or shower curtain gets stiff as a board when the cool air hits it after washing.

I put the plastic items across the ironing board, cover them with a tea towel — an old sheet is excellent — turn the iron on low, and iron them. They are as soft as silk then.

You must be sure the sheet or covering is completely over the plastic article as the iron will make a hole in the plastic if it comes in direct contact.

CIVIL RIGHTS PLANK

Scranton Forces Lose In Test Vote

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. William Scranton's forces lost a test vote Friday on their proposed civil rights plank in the 1964 Republican national platform.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Scranton's convention floor manager, said the Platform Committee's executive committee, at an all-night session, approved instead a declaration on civil rights which he termed: "Wholly and completely and entirely and thoroughly unsatisfactory."

Scott told a news conference that Scranton supporters would renew the fight before the full Platform Committee on this and three other issues.

He said the executive committee rejected or omitted action on platform statements denouncing the John Birch Society, opposing national "right-to-work" laws and urging civilian control of nuclear weapons.

The Pennsylvania senator said members were pledged to secrecy on the nature of the civil rights plank.

Scranton has urged the platform drafters to endorse the constitutionality of the Civil Rights Act and call for "full and effective enforcement." Goldwater has questioned the constitutional validity of two sections of the legislation in voting against the civil rights bill in the Senate. But he said that as president he would enforce the law.

Goldwater has said he wouldn't object to a statement censuring all extremist organizations but that he opposed singling out any one group. He has introduced legislation which would outlaw the union shop unless individual states enacted contrary laws.

On the nuclear issue, the Arizona senator has advocated delegating more authority to the commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to use small nuclear weapons.

Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey has sought approval for a plank reaffirming that the president must maintain control, no matter what the size of the weapon.

HORIZON BRIGHT

Johnson Claims Times Are Good

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson declared Friday "times are good" for the nation's economy, they are getting better and the economic horizon is bright "as far as the trained eye can see into 1965."

And he told his news conference he hopes to "have some good news for you" in announcing in a week or 10 days the final figures for the government's fiscal year which ended June 30.

But after ticking off what he called "glowing reports on our recent economic advances," Johnson added a note of caution. He said current contract negotiations in the auto industry "will have a profound impact upon our future price stability and therefore on our economic prospects at home and abroad."

The President then went on to say he is confident that both sides will work out "a settlement which will reinforce and extend the excellent noninflationary record which has characterized our vigorous economic expansion."

Johnson said neither side wants "governmental intervention in these negotiations—or do I," adding: "We are of one mind that the collective bargaining process should be conducted and completed in accordance with the pattern of free collective bargaining that we are determined to maintain in this country."

United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther has rejected Johnson's previous plea that wage boosts he kept in line with the national productivity increase of a little more than three per cent and has spoken of a goal of 4.9 per cent, which he says is the productivity increase in the auto industry.

In talking of good times now and in the future, Johnson said there is an impressive "calm confidence that we find in the consuming public and in the business community."

Also, he said, "there is a growing response to the challenge of cooperation and respect for the public interest on the part of business in setting prices, and unions in pursuing wage increases, and workers and managers, in finding ways to raise efficiency and so cut costs."

Johnson said he looks for continued strong gains in the second half of this year as the benefits of the tax cut flow through the economy.

"This is partly based," he said, "on surveys of 1964 business capital spending plans which show now a rise of nearly $5 billion, or 12 per cent above 1963, there are consumer spending surveys which show buying intentions near a record high."

The President said the mid-year review of the economy gone over with his Council of Economic Advisers on Thursday included these findings: "1.2 million more people have jobs than six months ago, 1.6 million people are at work than a year ago. Average weekly earnings in manufacturing hit a new high of $103 in May, $3.74 cents more than a year earlier.

"Great gains in profits are being translated into rising investments and new highs in the Dow-Jones average of stock prices. Dow-Jones averages of stock prices were around 700 when we came in on Nov. 22, and they are now 840-plus. Dividends are 11 per cent higher in May than they were last year.

Thieves Steal GOP Jewelry

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Thieves stole several cases of gold elephants, silver elephants, pink elephants and assorted Republican party costume jewelry Thursday night.

The shipment was consigned to William J. Sears, 25, a New York salesman who is operating a GOP jewelry concession here for the national convention. He estimated his loss at $3,240.

The packing cases were taken from a loading dock at the rear of the hotel.

U.S. HEARS

Greek, Turkish Soldiers Infiltrating Into Cyprus

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has received reports that Greece and Turkey have been infiltrating troops in small numbers into strife-torn Cyprus for the past six or eight weeks.

Officials said Friday the reports are "fairly well substantiated" and they do not doubt that some infiltration has been going on, with a greater number of Greeks than of Turks landing on the island from small boats.

The situation in Cyprus is considered here to be becoming increasingly explosive, though the White House and State Department still hope that diplomatic measures now being taken will succeed in preventing any action which would lead to open warfare between the two NATO allies, Greece and Turkey.

Major diplomatic activity in which the United States is now involved is taking place in Geneva. President Johnson sent former Secretary of State Dean Acheson there last weekend to give any help he can to a United Nations mediator whose task is to try to find some basis for a Cyprus settlement.

The dispatch of Acheson followed separate talks by President Johnson with the prime ministers of Greece and Turkey. Johnson's concern about reaching a permanent solution on the Cyprus problem was impressed on both men. He urged them to enter into direct negotiations but his proposal on this point was rejected by Greek Prime Minister George Papandreou.

The basic trouble arises from a seething conflict between the Cypriot population of half a million people of Greek ancestry and the Turkish Cypriot population numbering about 100,000.

Under the four-year-old treaty which established Cyprus independence from British rule the Greeks had maintained 950 troops on the island and the Turks 650.

The British also had a large troop contingent there numbering several thousand but this has been reduced to a little more than 1,100 officers and men since the United Nations took over peacekeeping operations three months ago. The U.N. total now is about 6,000.

Officials here said they are skeptical of reports published abroad that Greek military infiltrations amounted to 4,000 men but estimated the number may run into several hundreds.

Corn, Wheat Forecasts Made

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's production of corn for grain at 3,888,433,000 bushels and of all wheat at 1,275,304,000 bushels. Both were grown under government programs calling for smaller acreages than last year.

The corn estimate, the first of the year, compares with last year's record large crop of 4,081,791,000 bushels and with the five-year 1958-62 average of 3,670,215,000 bushels.

The wheat figure compared with 1,213,068,000 forecast a month ago, 1,137,641,000 produced last year and 1,252,847,000 for the five-year average.

Candy Harper was chosen to be in charge of publicity.

The Jaycees will serve as advisors and chaperones for the activities, but the teen-agers will plan and finance these themselves. Ed Lucas is the chairman of this Jaycee project.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

JOTTINGS IN PENCIL . . . .New Yorkers on the night club shift were understandably startled by the bulletin that Frank Sinatra had collapsed from "overstrain" in Stockholm and had been unable to make it to the Floyd Patterson-Eddie Machen fight. Frank had been positively coltish during his stay in Manhattan, making the rounds of his favorite late spots from Jilly's to the Copacabana. On the night before he left for Sweden, he acted as master of ceremonies for Morgana King at Mister J's, greeted patrons at the door, showed them to tables as if he were host of the place, and even obliged one couple by moving them to a place nearer the bandstand. (Of course, there's always the possibility that he was knocked for a loop by Juliet Prowse's interview in which she said: "I still love Frank Sinatra. But I love him as a widow loves her husband. Sinatra is dead, a closed chapter in my life." Tha's enough to depress even a less sensitive soul than Frankie.)

The Sardi Set hears the district attorney's next move in the theatre ticket probe will involve house seats at the hit shows — who gets 'em and what happens when they do . . . Joe Levine's flick "The Carpetbaggers" is amazing the movie world. It racked up a gross of a million and a half dollars all over the country this week —a figure hitherto unheard of for a film. At the Paramount, it did bigger business in the one week than that theatre's last six attractions combined, and it now appears that Joe's original prediction of a $40,000,000 gross was too conservative. The picture cost less than 4,000,000 to make.

If you're not convinced that it's a looney world we live in, dig the pickets who saunter by the Women's House of Detention these summer days. They carry signs reading: "Make Prostitution Legal!" and "Why Not On Sunday?" and draw cheers from the inmates whenever they pass by . . . Geraldine Chaplin, rehearsing for a ballet adaptation of "Pygmalion" in Paris, passed out cold during a run-through the other afternoon and was ordered to bed for three days of rest. Her swoon caused papa Charlie Chaplin to reiterate his contention that she's been overdoing the gay life; he'd like her to return to Switzerland and regain her health.

A British actor who might reasonably be assumed to be quite wealthy just took off from an exotic island and headed for another paradise, leaving a batch of very unromantic debts behind him . . . Ava Gardner is off for two weeks at Elizabeth Arden's Arizona spa, to recuperate from the rigors of the "Night of the Iguana" premiere, but she'll be back at the Regency by July 19. Her neighbors in the posh hotel report that Ava was on very good behavior this time around; during her last stay, her late late musicales became very noisy and there were quite a few complaints.

Death Sentence Given In Killing Of State Man

WINNSBORO (Special) — Fort Gordon Army Pvt. Willie Joe King is awaiting execution after being convicted of the premediated murder of Pvt. Joseph Poye Jr. of Many, a graduate of Winnsboro High School and Louisiana Tech.

King was sentenced to die June 25 by a six-man Army court marshall board at Fort Gordon for the April 7, 1962, shooting of Poye.

King disappeared from the army post the night of the shooting. He was arrested later in Oklahoma shortly after the robbery of a bank in Webber Falls.

At the time of his arrest, King was in Poye's car and had Poye's identification on his person, Army authorities said. They added that Poye's name had been forged on several checks.

King was sentenced to 12 years in connection with the robbery, and later returned to Fort Gordon where he led a search party to Long Creek in Warren County, where Poye's skeleton was found.

Poye had been shot in the head and back. King's attorneys said they would appeal the death penalty. Date of execution has not been set.

Nine Ouachita Men To Advise Freshmen Boys

RUSTON (Special) — Ouachita Parish will be represented by nine men students of Louisiana Tech who are among the 156 volunteering to serve as advisers to freshman boys entering the college for the fall semester, the dean of men's office announced.

Dormitories will be open for the beginning students Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 9, and for upperclassmen Sunday afternoon, Sept. 13.

Registration is scheduled for Sept. 14-15 and classes will begin on Sept. 16.

The men advisers from Ouachita Parish are:

Monroe — Marshall C. Baker Jr., Jim Cozine, Frank Fontana, Jr., Phil Guthrie, Terry Hessick.

West Monroe — Darrell Bridges, James A. Norris Jr., Ray L. Pylant, Ronald E. Wood.

Absentee Votes Cast In Winn

WINNFIELD (Special) — Twenty absentee ballots had been cast for the July 25th Democratic primary at noon Friday, C. A. Crain, registrar of voters, said.

A total of 7,885 Democrats are registered for the election, in which a U. S. Congressman from the Eighth District will be selected. Candidates Gillis Long, incumbent, of Winnfield, and Speedy O. Long, former Louisiana state senator, of Jena.

Delegates Fly To Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barham of Oak Ridge left Friday by plane for San Francisco, Calif., to attend the National Republican Convention where Barham will be a voting delegate and Mrs. Barham, an alternate.

After the convention July 13-17 the Barhams will fly to Baton Rouge for the Louisiana Farm Bureau Convention. Barham is president of the Morehouse Parish Farm Bureau federation.

ANDERSEN CORPORATION • BAYPORT, MINNESOTA

ANDERSEN

THE MOST FAMOUS NAME ON WINDOWS

Surveys repeatedly demonstrate that Andersen is the best-known, most-wanted window available today. Quality builders use them in the homes they build. Home buyers look for the Andersen name on the window . . . they know it's a good sign of quality.

ECONOMY

Window units are a lifetime investment. Cost cannot be measured by initial purchase price alone. Final installed cost, service policy and years of satisfactory service are the real measure of the true economy of Andersen Windows.

44 STANDARD SIZES

Available. Units can be used as singles, multiples or in combination with one of 9 matched picture windows.

LET US SHOW YOU THE:

GLIDER

A picture window that glides smoothly sideways on plastic tracks at sill and head. Snugly leakproof due to engineered and tested frame design. Completely weatherstripped. Triple - action locks draw sash tight on the same plane when unit is closed. May be removed for easy cleaning.

FLEXIVENT®

Versatile! Can be used singly, in stacks, ribbons, or picture-window groupings. Available in three different types of sash openings (plus fixed sash) . . . outswinging awning, inswinging hopper or outswinging casement.
